

Contents

1	Resistance and Military History — 1
1.1	The German Resistance Movement in Military History — 1
1.2	A Modern Concept of Military History — 2
2	Opposition and Resistance against Hitler — 6
2.1	Broadening and Narrowing Definitions — 6
2.2	Studies in Postwar Germany: Moral Appraisal or Scholarly Research? — 9
2.3	Historicizing – Overcoming moralizing approaches — 17
3	Military and Politics in the Weimar Republic — 29
3.1	The Army: Large and Universal or Small and Professional? — 29
3.2	A State within the State — 40
3.3	The Reichswehr: A Forum for Frank Debate — 47
3.4	The Early Nazi Party — 51
3.5	Hitler's Own War Experiences — 52
3.6	The Nazi Party and the Reichswehr before 1933 — 53
3.7	The Party and the Military after 1933 — 59
4	The Military in the Polycratic Structures of the Third Reich, 1939 – 1944 — 77
4.1	Army, Navy, Luftwaffe, and Waffen-SS — 77
4.2	The Command Structure — 91
4.3	Amateurish: Hitler as Commander — 100
4.4	Elite Manipulation: Hitler's Interference in Army Personnel Policies — 108
4.5	Resistance in the Luftwaffe, the Air Ministry and the German Navy — 115
5	Military Experts: The Army General Staff — 127
5.1	The General Staff's Traditional Role and Beck's Resignation in 1938 — 127
5.2	Advice in War: Facts and Figures, or Fanatical Belief? — 141
5.3	No Total War — 145

6	Resistance and War — 148
6.1	Depletion of Resources — 148
6.2	War Aims, Social Darwinism, and Options for Peace — 152
6.3	Crimes in the Occupied Territories — 162
6.4	A Crime against the German Nation — 169
6.5	Tresckow, Gersdorff, Boeselager, Stauffenberg, Schmidt von Altenstadt: The Resistance and Russia — 173
6.6	The “People’s War” of 1813–1815 — 197
7	Military Planning for a Coup d’État — 202
7.1	Whether or Not to Assassinate Hitler: The Oath — 202
7.2	No Time to Lose — 212
7.3	The Organization — 218
7.4	The Plan — 230
7.5	Communications — 260
7.6	A Realistic Plan? — 267
8	Consequences of the failed coup d’état — 270
8.1	The Army “Court of Honor” — 270
8.2	Power Shifts within the Nazi System — 279
8.3	Fighting to the End and Individual Refusal — 296
9	Political, Military, and Ethical Goals of the Resistance — 301
9.1	Creating Stable Structures — 301
9.2	Resistance and Parliamentary Democracy — 304
9.3	Ending the War in the East? — 310
9.4	Ending the War in the West — 315
9.5	Contacts with the Western Allies — 327
9.6	An End to the Crimes — 335
9.7	The “Final Solution of the Power Struggle”– The Shadow of 1918/19 — 337
9.8	“Common Civility”? Military and Civilians — 341
9.9	Realism and Idealism: Lack of Political Perspectives and Ethical Motivation — 348

10	The Military Resistance in the West German Bundeswehr, the National People's Army and the Austrian Bundesheer — 355
10.1	The Federal Republic, the Bundeswehr and the tradition of the resistance — 356
10.2	The resistance in the tradition of the East German National People's Army — 393
10.3	The Austrian Bundesheer and the military resistance — 401
11	Conclusion — 405
	Sources and Bibliography — 410
	Unpublished Sources — 410
	Bibliography — 411
	Index — 459