

Contents

1	Digital Leadership in the Agile World and the Present of Change Management	1
1.1	The Megatrends of the World as a Reality Shock	1
1.2	Everything Is Change: Digital Leadership as Change Leadership	5
1.2.1	Digital Leadership Is Change Leadership: The New Change Paradigm	5
1.2.2	Digital Change 2.0	7
1.2.3	Requirements for a Digital Leader	10
1.3	Reality: What Has (Not) Been Thought and Done So Far	18
1.3.1	The Status Quo: Change Management and Its Myths	18
1.3.2	Triggers, Types, and Conceptual Developments in Change Management	23
1.3.3	Leadership Theories	26
1.3.4	Strategy Concepts for Disruptive Change	28
1.3.5	Implementation with the Scaled Agile Framework (SAFe®)	30
1.4	Summary and Conclusion	37
	References	38
2	What We (Can and Should) Know About Emotions Today	41
2.1	Emotions in Change Management Contexts	41
2.2	Introduction: Schools of Thought in Emotion Research	44
2.3	Elements of the Three Schools of Thought	46
2.3.1	Feeling Tradition	46
2.3.2	Motivational	51
2.3.3	Evaluative	53
2.4	Emotions from a Dichotomy Perspective	56
2.5	Summary Emotion Theories	62
2.6	Bio-constructivism as the Basis for the Development of Emotion	65
2.6.1	The Development of Emotion	65

2.6.2	Language as a Central Building Block for Emotional Experience	67
2.6.3	Social Function of Emotions	71
2.6.4	Summary of Bio-constructivism	73
	References	75
3	Emotions and Organizational Culture	77
3.1	Organizational Culture: An Overview	77
3.2	Organizational Culture: The Concept of Renald Müller	82
3.3	Organizational Culture: The Concept of Edgar Schein	82
3.4	Organizational Culture: The Concept of Frederic LaLoux	85
3.5	Design and Change in Organizational Culture	88
3.5.1	General	88
3.5.2	Changing Organizational Culture	91
3.6	Summary	94
	References	95
4	Emotions and Agile Change	97
4.1	Overview and Orientation	97
4.2	Emotions in the Change Readiness Process	103
4.3	Emotions in the Change Process: The Model of Doppler and Voigt	107
4.4	Emotions in the Change Process: The Gibbons Model	111
4.5	Summary	114
	References	115
5	Concepts and Instruments for Dealing with Emotions	117
5.1	Overview of Instruments for Behavioral Change	117
5.2	To Begin with: Storytelling and Strategic Narratives	118
5.2.1	Science Fiction	119
5.2.2	Strategic Narrative	121
5.2.3	Change Story	123
5.2.4	Brand and Image	124
5.2.5	Graphic Novel, Cartoons, and Comics	124
5.2.6	Tales	126
5.2.7	Classical Communication Formats	128
5.3	The Core Affect Model	130
5.4	Emotional Granularity	131
5.5	COMO Model (Cognition Mapped to Emotion)	133
5.5.1	Introduction and Overview	133
5.5.2	Individual Factors of Cognitive Willingness to Change	135
5.5.3	Collective Factors of Cognitive Willingness to Change	138
5.5.4	Summary: Individual and Collective Influencing Factors	140
5.5.5	Individual Emotional Influencing Factors	141
5.5.6	Collective Emotional Influencing Factors	146
5.5.7	Summary and Discussion	149

5.6	Mindfulness for Individuals and Teams	152
5.7	Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Emotion Recognition	155
5.7.1	AI from the Perspective of Business and Politics	155
5.7.2	AI-Based Emotion Recognition of Faces and Voices	158
5.7.3	AI-Based Emotion Recognition of Posture and Gait	159
5.7.4	AI-Based Emotion Recognition Based on Text	161
5.7.5	Technical, Ethical, and Legal Challenges of AI-Based Emotion Recognition	162
5.7.6	Summary and Conclusion AI-Based Emotion Recognition	165
	References	167
6	Conclusion	171
	References	174