

Contents

| | |
|---|-----------|
| 1 The Tiresome Debate about Germany's Role in the World: From Overcoming Division to the New German Question | 1 |
| No Fear of Germany—The Laborious Development of German Foreign Policy | 7 |
| The End of the West and Responsible Power Politics | 11 |
| Challenges to German Foreign Policy in a Radically Changed World | 15 |
| 2 The Future of the Global Economy and the Euro Area | 21 |
| German Trade Surpluses—A Threat to the Global Economy? | 23 |
| An Agenda for the Sustainable Improvement of German Competitiveness | 26 |
| The Euro Crisis—Germany's Alternative Path to Solidarity | 35 |
| 3 Between the Fronts: Conflict and Crisis Management on the Eastern and Southern Flanks of the EU | 47 |
| Security in Europe—Russia and the Ukrainian Crisis | 50 |

| | |
|---|------------|
| Breaking of Taboos in German Foreign and Security Policy—The Crises on the Southern Periphery | 57 |
| Europe’s Defense and Balancing Out of Military Power | 62 |
| The Refugee Crisis and the Dilemma of the Idea of Humanitarian Intervention | 72 |
| 4 Transatlantic and Other Strategic Partnerships: Germany in the Concert of Global System Change | 79 |
| “Taking Fate Into Your Own Hands” . . . On the Future of Transatlantic Relations | 81 |
| On the Necessary Reassessment of Relations with Russia | 89 |
| Why China Affects Us | 97 |
| 5 Germany’s New Foreign Policy Pragmatism | 105 |
| Self-Assertion in the New System Competition Has Its Price | 109 |
| Pragmatism Does Not Mean Arbitrariness, But Requires Strategic Priorities | 114 |
| The End of Self-Bondage—Why the Debate about the German Role Is Out of Date | 117 |
| Europe’s Metamorphosis | 120 |
| Arrival | 125 |
| Literature | 129 |