

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Research Approach	6
1.2	Research Contribution	10
1.3	Structure of the Study	11
2	Theoretical Framework	15
2.1	Dynamic Capabilities and the Capability Rigidity Paradox	18
2.2	Macro-Level Capability Constructs and Hierarchies: The Innate Paradoxes	23
2.2.1	Resources, Capabilities, and Dynamic Capabilities	23
2.2.2	Capability Hierarchies	25
2.2.3	Routines as the Core Building Blocks of Dynamic Capabilities	28
2.2.4	Learning Mechanisms, Routines, and the Dynamic Capability View	29
2.3	Methodological Debates and the Rise of Microfoundations	35
2.3.1	Micro-Level Perspectives on Dynamic Capabilities	40
2.3.2	Who is the Agent: Revisiting the Knowledge Core of Dynamic Capabilities	43
2.4	Micro-Level Dynamism: The Managerial Turn Within Dynamic Capabilities Research	55
2.4.1	Micro-Processes: An Interlude to the Managerial Turn	62
2.4.2	Dynamic Managerial Capabilities: The Core of the Managerial Turn	65

2.4.3	The Entrepreneur as a Dynamic Extension of the Managerial Turn	69
2.4.4	The Managerial Turn: Falling Short of Explaining Dynamism?	72
2.5	Framing the Empirical Study: Something Old, Something New, and a Connection	77
2.5.1	Something Old: Strategy Process Research and the Integration of Different Agents	78
2.5.2	Something New: Meso- and Multilevel Perspectives	82
2.5.3	A Connection: The Strategy-as-Practice Lens	87
3	Empirical Methodology	93
3.1	Empirical Setting: From an Overarching Research Project to the Culture Capability	94
3.1.1	Identifying the Case	94
3.1.2	Getting to Know the Organization, the Context, and the Culture Capability	96
3.1.3	Military Organizations as Appropriate Setting for Strategic Management Research	100
3.2	Research Design	103
3.2.1	Grounded Design and Research Questions	104
3.2.2	Longitudinal Case Study	107
3.2.3	Ensuring the Quality of the Research Design	110
3.3	Data Collection	111
3.4	Analyzing the Data	120
4	Findings	125
4.1	Findings Part I: Prologue and Development	127
4.2	Findings Part II: Capability Development as a Process From 1990 Until 2017	139
4.2.1	New Challenges and Experimental Problem Solutions	140
4.2.2	Emerging Patterns and Forming Interconnections	145
4.2.3	Emerging Capabilities and Stabilizing Structures	152
4.2.4	Changing Strategic Mindset: Organization-Wide Transformations	166
4.2.5	Preliminary Summary: Emergent Capability Development	174
4.3	Findings Part III: Processes Regarding Sensing and Seizing	175

4.3.1	Experiencing New Challenges: Dimension 1 (Frontline & Middle Management)	178
4.3.2	Experimenting With (New) Resources: Dimension 2 (Frontline)	180
4.3.3	Reallocating Internal Resources: Dimension 3 (Middle Management)	184
4.3.4	Creating New Resources: Dimension 4 (Frontline)	186
4.3.5	Facilitating Frontline Activities: Dimension 5 (Middle Management)	191
4.3.6	Supporting Lower Level Activities: Dimension 6 (Top Management)	196
4.3.7	Integrating New Resource Combinations: Dimension 7 (Middle & Top Management)	198
4.3.8	Preliminary Interpretation: A Process Model of Capability Emergence	201
4.4	Findings Part IV: Practices of Enacting an Adaptive Community	213
4.4.1	Mutual Adjustment Part I: Practices of Knowledge-Sharing	214
4.4.2	Mutual Adjustment Part II: Practices Facilitating Shared Interpretation	218
4.4.3	Preliminary Interpretation: The Adaptive Community as the Meso-Level	222
5	Discussion	239
5.1	The Micro-Level Perspective and the Capability Rigidity Paradox	246
5.2	The Meso-Level Perspective and the Capability Rigidity Paradox	253
5.2.1	Connecting Decoupled Pockets of Dynamism	254
5.2.2	Advancing Current Concepts of Meso-Level Dynamic Capabilities	256
5.3	Dynamic Capabilities Revisited: Multilevel Research to Back the Original Concept	263
6	Conclusions	271
6.1	Limitations and Future Research	274
6.2	Practical Implications	275
	References	277