

Table of Contents

Introduction	11
Chapter I: Paradoxical genealogy of subject	17
On the paradox	17
Deleuze – “temporality” of sense	23
Disjunctive synthesis	24
Lacan – “temporality” of sense	26
Lacan and Deleuze – the function of time	28
Tension and paradox	32
Casus Narcissus	39
Narcissus, art, Jüngers’ three-dimensionality and the paradox of the word	40
“But poets establish what remains”	45
Chapter II: Relativity of the relation between I – Other	49
General theory of relativity and quantum mechanics – place and role of the subject	49
Cortazar’s mirror – a metaphor of the subject	53
The paradoxical concept of knowledge	55
Time according to Lacan, for the second time... ..	57
Time according to Deleuze	61
Structural difference?	62
Mirror – a symbol of self-knowledge	64
Tears	67
Chapter III: Paradoxical status of the I – Other relation	69
Derrida’s Narcissus	69

Ovidius's Narcissus	74
Narcissus and a world without the Other	75
Fort-da without Other	77
Narcissus' call and the position of the observer	79
"Mirror and mask" – the unbearable weight of Other... ..	80
 Chapter IV: Paradoxical ontological status of the world
as such	87
Potentiality according to Agamben	87
The "cut" in the Deleuzian landscape	91
The "cut" in Quantum Mechanics. The position of the observer and the Agambenian mistake	93
The act of "cut" in the Deleuzian landscape	96
"Cut" in quantum mechanics. Observer position and Agamben's assumption	98
Akeda: Kierkegaard's paradox, comedy and the position of subject	101
 Final conclusions	109
 ENDING: Paradoxical status of subjectivity	113
 Speranza error	117
 Bibliography	119
 Illustrations	123
 Index of Names	125