

Contents

Acknowledgements — XI

Foreword by Paul Mendes-Flohr — XIII

Preface — XV

Introduction — 1

PART ONE – Rabbinic and Biblical Background

- 1 From Divine Election to Self-Deification — 17
 - 1.1 The Sacrifice of Human Conscience — 17
 - 1.2 The Tension Between Chosenness and Humanness — 25
 - 1.3 Consolidation of the Rift — 34
 - 1.4 The Complex Case of Rabbi Abraham I. Kook — 45
 - 1.5 Maimonides' Honorable Exception — 54
 - 1.6 The Fateful Influence of the Shi'ite Ideology on Judah Halevi — 58
 - 1.7 From Eternal Segregation to the 'Fantastic' Delusion of Supremacy — 71
 - 1.8 Subverting Halakhic Judaism into an 'Empty Shell' of Sacred History: From Halakhic Wisdom to Neo-Prophetic Re-Vision — 76
 - 1.9 Distorting the Most Treasured Feature of Jewish Life — 83
 - 1.10 The Challenges and Promises of Dialogical Philosophy — 87
- 2 Biblical Background: 'Particularism' vs. 'Universalism,' or Exemplary Uniqueness? — 95
 - 2.1 Setting the Ground — 95
 - 2.2 "Was bedeutet die 'Auserwählung Israels'" – The 1936 Lecture — 102
 - 2.3 "Die Erwählung Israels: Eine Befragung der Bibel" – The 1938 Essay — 104
- 3 Revelation to Moses at Sinai: Exodus 3 — 115
 - 3.1 'My people' [ammî] — 115
 - 3.2 God's Unconditional Freedom: 'Ehyeh asher ehyeh' — 118

3.3	From 'My people' to 'My son' —	124
3.4	The Primacy and Sanctity of the Election: ' Kodesh ' – ' Reshit ' —	128
3.5	Israel's 'Destiny' —	131
3.6	Israel as ' Reshit ' —	141
3.7	From ' Tzelem ' to 'Blessing' – The 'Imitation of God' —	143
3.8	The 'New People' —	145
3.9	The Relation Between 'People' and 'Land' —	150
3.10	"Be Thou a Blessing!" —	156
3.11	From 'Commandment' to 'Grace' —	165
4	Israel at Sinai —	169
4.1	The Covenant —	169
4.2	Revelation as 'Meeting' —	178
4.3	The ' Eagle Speech ' —	187
5	The Book of Deuteronomy —	200
5.1	Election as 'Love' —	200
5.2	The Election Grants No 'Security' —	202
5.3	The Remnant of Israel and the Servant of YHVH —	209

PART TWO – The Modern Period

6	Foundations of a Völkisch Movement —	223
6.1	The Background —	223
6.2	'National Humanism' versus 'National Egoism' —	239
7	Passion for Land and Volk: The Threat of Neo-Romanticism —	250
7.1	Ideological Framework —	250
7.2	Martin Buber's Struggle with the Völkisch Movement —	258
7.3	The Völkisch Movement and the Roots of Jewish Nationalism —	266
7.4	Martin Buber's Open Debate with Hermann Cohen —	286
7.5	Conflicting Conceptions of Nationalism —	293
7.6	A Believing Nationalism? —	295
8	Ecclesia Triumphans and the Silent Servant —	306
8.1	Judaism and Christianity in the Womb of Myth —	308
8.2	Repressed Sources of Anti-Semitism —	317

8.3	Church and Synagogue Face the Kingdom as Servants of an Exiled World —	323
8.4	The Impact of Modernity —	350
8.5	Divided Visions – Israel and the Nations —	356
8.6	The Perplexing Tension Between Ethics and Religious Duties —	365
9	The Jewish Task in World History —	375
9.1	Revelation as Divine Presence —	375
9.2	The Secret of the ‘Nation’ —	407
9.3	The Renewal of the ‘ Tzelem ’ —	419
9.4	The Community and the ‘Throne of the True King’ —	423
9.5	Marx and Freud —	433
9.6	The Second Stage of the Task —	438
10	Towards the End: A Center Without a Center —	447
10.1	A Center without a Center or a Messianism without a Messiah ? —	447
10.2	Yeshayahu Leibowitz’s Critical Position —	460
10.3	Isaiah’s Resounding Words —	473
Epilogue —		475
	Humanity —	475
Bibliography —		476
Index —		512