

Contents

List of Tables — XVII

Abbreviations — XIX

- 1 Introduction: Schleiermacher's Plato — 1
 - 1.1 Schleiermacher's Achievement — 1
 - 1.2 The Question: Schleiermacher and Plato — 3
 - 1.3 Thesis and Approach of Schleiermacher's Plato — 8
 - 1.4 The Decade of Plato in Schleiermacher's Life — 11
 - 1.4.1 Exile in Stolp, Pomerania (1802–1804) — 13
 - 1.4.2 Academic Life in Halle (1804–1807) — 17
 - 1.5 On Texts, Translations, and Editions — 19
- 2 Schleiermacher's Platons Werke and Its Legacy — 21
 - 2.1 Introduction — 21
 - 2.2 Conception of the Plato Project — 23
 - 2.3 Central Themes in Schleiermacher's "General Introduction" — 32
 - 2.3.1 Internal Method — 32
 - 2.3.2 Plato as Artist — 37
 - 2.3.3 The Dialogue Form — 41
 - 2.3.4 The Authenticity and Order of the Dialogues — 44
 - 2.4 Controversial Issues in the Introductions — 48
 - 2.4.1 Placement of the Phaedrus — 48
 - 2.4.2 The Ordering and Chronology of the Dialogues — 51
 - 2.4.3 The Validity of the Esoteric Tradition — 53
 - 2.5 Concluding Remarks — 56
- 3 Practicing on Plato: Interpretation, Socratic Clues, and the Emergence of Schleiermacher's Hermeneutics — 58
 - 3.1 Introduction — 58
 - 3.2 The New Criticism and the Plato Renaissance — 59
 - 3.3 The Phaedrus: Socratic Clues and Hermeneutical Principles — 64
 - 3.4 Principles for Determining Authenticity of Plato's Dialogues — 71
 - 3.5 Principles for Ordering Plato's Dialogues — 75
 - 3.5.1 Provisional Whole: A Trilogy of Trilogies — 75

- 3.5.2 The Pedagogical Progression of Ideas — 78
 - 3.5.3 The Two Series: Ethics and Physics — 82
 - 3.6 Concluding Remarks: The Interpreter as Artist — 84
- 4 Reading Plato's Dialectics: Schleiermacher's Insistence on Dialectics as Dialogical — 86
 - 4.1 Introduction — 86
 - 4.2 Basic Interpretive Principles in the "General Introduction" — 89
 - 4.3 The First Trilogy and the Method of Philosophy — 91
 - 4.4 The Trilogy at the Center and the Object of Philosophy — 97
 - 4.5 An Inconclusive Concluding Trilogy — 102
 - 4.6 Concluding Remarks: From Reading Plato's Dialectics to Lecturing on Dialectics — 105
- 5 Schleiermacher's Christmas Dialogue as Platonic Dialogue — 107
 - 5.1 Introduction — 107
 - 5.2 The Phaedrus and the Opening Scene of the Christmas Dialogue — 115
 - 5.2.1 Gifts — 116
 - 5.2.2 Conversation — 117
 - 5.2.3 The 'Seeds' — 118
 - 5.2.4 Impulse and Method — 122
 - 5.3 The Symposium and the Women's Stories — 128
 - 5.3.1 Ernestine's Story — 130
 - 5.3.2 Agnes's Story — 132
 - 5.3.3 Karoline's Story — 134
 - 5.4 The Republic and the Men's Speeches — 136
 - 5.5 Josef's Unsayings — 139
 - 5.6 Concluding Remarks — 141
- 6 The Presence of Plato in the Speeches (1806), Part 1: Revising, Reconceiving, and Recasting — 143
 - 6.1 Introduction — 143
 - 6.2 Re-Writing as Spiritual Exercise: Holding together Theory and Praxis in the Speeches — 148
 - 6.2.1 The Two Impulses (Triebe) — 149
 - 6.2.2 Rhetorical Shifts — 153
 - 6.2.3 Intuition as the 'Hinge' of the Argument — 154

6.3	Revised Block N° 1: A New Three of Thinking, Doing, and Feeling —	155
6.3.1	A More Complex Typology —	156
6.3.2	Acting: Life and Art —	158
6.3.3	Thinking About Nature—and About Human Nature —	160
6.4	Revised Block N° 2: “Contemplation is Essential to Religion” —	163
6.4.1	Appearances, Education, and the Higher Nature of Knowing —	164
6.4.2	The Science of Being, the Infinite, and Contemplation —	169
6.4.3	Plato’s Middle Dialogues on the Infinite and the Finite —	174
6.4.4	Plato’s Middle Dialogues on Contemplation —	178
6.4.5	Return to the Science of Being in Revised Block N° 2 —	183
6.4.6	The Science of Acting and Piety —	184
7	The Presence of Plato in the Speeches (1806), Part 2: Being, Non-Being, and Intuition —	187
7.1	Introduction —	187
7.2	Revised Block N° 3: “... go and learn it from your Socrates” —	189
7.2.1	Socratic Ignorance, Being and Non-Being —	190
7.2.2	Platons Werke : The Sophist on Being and Non-Being —	194
7.2.3	The Second Speech and the Sophist : The Two Series, Physics and Ethics —	199
7.2.4	Intuition and the Unity of Theory and Praxis , Reason and Nature —	201
7.3	Revised Block N° 4: “the original relation of feeling and intuition” —	206
7.3.1	The Replaced 1799 Version: Intuition as the “Hinge” of the Second Speech —	207
7.3.2	Contemplation and the Innermost Sanctuary of Life, Redux —	210
7.3.3	The “Original Relation of Feeling and Intuition” —	212
7.3.4	Intuition in Platons Werke and the Second Speech —	217
7.3.5	The Three Series and Their Association —	220
7.3.6	Religion and Contemplation —	222
7.4	Concluding Remarks on the Speeches (1806) and the Introductions —	226
8	Conclusion: Schleiermacher’s Plato —	227

Bibliography — 233

1 Primary Sources — 233

German Editions of Schleiermacher's Texts Cited — 233

English Translations of Schleiermacher's Texts Cited — 234

English Translations of Plato's Dialogues — 235

2 Secondary Sources — 235

Index — 248