

Contents

Mette Bjerregaard Mortensen, Guillaume Dye, Isaac W. Oliver, and Tommaso Tesei

Introduction — 1

I Early Islam and the Qur'ān: Methodological Considerations

Aaron W. Hughes

The Current Status and Problems of Islamic Origins — 11

Stephen J. Shoemaker

A New Arabic Apocryphon from Late Antiquity: The Qur'ān — 29

II Early Islam and the Qur'ān: Historical, Literary, and Cross-Comparative Analyses

Manfred Kropp

Body Parts Nomenclature in the Qur'anic Corpus — 45

Jillian Stinchcomb

The Queen of Sheba in the Qur'ān and Late Antique Midrash — 85

Isaac W. Oliver

Standing under the Mountain: Jewish and Christian Threads to a Qur'anic
Construction — 97

Guillaume Dye

Mapping the Sources of the Qur'anic Jesus — 153

Julien Decharneux

The Natural Theology of the Qur'ān and Its Late Antique Christian Background: A Preliminary Outline — 177

III Early Islam and the Qur'ān: Social, Political, and Religious Contexts

Gilles Courtieu and Carlos A. Segovia

Q 2:102, 43:31, and Ctesiphon-Seleucia — 203

Peter von Sivers

Prophecies Fulfilled: The Qur'anic Arabs in the Early 600s — 231

Boaz Shoshan

The Sasanian Conquest of Ḥimyar Reconsidered: In Search of a Local Hero — 259

Marcus Milwright

Contextual Readings of Religious Statements in Early Islamic Inscriptions — 275

Valentina A. Grasso

The Gods of the Qur'ān: The Rise of Ḥijāzī Henotheism during Late Antiquity — 297

Ilkka Lindstedt

“One Community to the Exclusion of Other People”: A Superordinate Identity in the Medinan Community — 325

List of Contributors — 377