

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Governance Networks in Western Societies	1
1.2	Research Question and Contributions to the Literature	4
1.3	Empirical Setting and Methods	6
1.4	Results	9
1.5	Structure of the Thesis	10
2	Welfare, Governance, and Street-level Bureaucracy: Links and Research Gaps	11
2.1	Welfare and the Engagement of Non-state Actors	11
2.1.1	Role of Non-state Actors in Welfare Delivery	12
2.1.2	Role of Churches and FBOs in the Welfare Sector	14
2.1.3	Welfare Patterns and the Engagement of Confessional Organizations in Germany	18
2.2	Governance Networks and their Emergence	23
2.2.1	Governance and Governance Networks – a Conceptual Clarification	23
2.2.2	Governance Networks and their Purpose	26
2.2.3	The Formation Process of Governance Networks	28
2.3	Street-level Bureaucrats and their Role in the Emergence of Governance Networks	31
2.3.1	Potential of SLBs for Divergent Behavior	32
2.3.2	Role of SLBs in Governance Networks	36
2.4	Summary of the Literature Review	38

3	Theory, Concept, and Research Design	39
3.1	Interest of SLBs in Building Local Governance Networks	39
3.2	Logics of SLBs that Shape their Cooperation Interest Toward Different Organizations During the Emergence of Governance Networks	40
3.3	Operationalization of Logics that Determine SLBs' Cooperation Interest	44
3.4	Research Design	49
4	Initial Position of SLBs and their Self-perception of Cooperation Interest	51
4.1	Methods I	51
4.2	Initial Position of SLBs: Civil-society Engagement and its State Steering in Germany	54
4.2.1	The Role of Volunteer Work in Germany	54
4.2.2	State Support for Civil Engagement	61
4.2.3	The Integrative Character of Germany's Civil Society	67
4.3	Volunteer Managers as Campaigners of Civil Society: Self-perception and Logics that Shape their Cooperation Interest	69
4.3.1	Volunteer Managers' Tasks, Role Perceptions, and Risks	69
4.3.2	Volunteer Managers' Cooperation Interest, Logics Affecting it, and Contextual Impacts	78
4.4	Summary	92
5	A Field Experiment: The Prevalence of Logics that Determine the Cooperation Interest of SLBs	95
5.1	Methods II	95
5.2	General Empirical Results	102
5.3	Policy Field-specific Results	110
5.4	Summary of the Field Experiment	111
6	Conclusion	115
6.1	Summary	115
6.2	Theoretical Implications	119
6.3	Limitations of the Thesis	120
6.4	Practical Implications	122
	Literature	125