

Table of Contents

Preface: The Times Are Many by Carlo Rovelli — V

Introduction by Alessandra Campo — XIII

Part One: Some Preliminary Questions

Étienne Klein

Who Is Entitled to Talk about Time? Philosophers or Physicists? — 3

Yuval Dolev

Einstein vs. Bergson, Scientism vs. Humanism — 15

Matteo Morganti

Is Time Unreal? — 35

Part Two: Bergsonian Issues

Donatella Donati, Simone Gozzano

The Eternal Quarrel on Time — 55

Mauro Dorato

Some Contemporary Reflections on Bergson's Time and Free Will — 65

Paul-Antoine Miquel

Duration and Becoming in Bergson's Metaphysics — 83

Elie During

Time as Form: Lessons from the Bergson-Einstein Dispute — 99

Alessandra Campo, Rocco Ronchi

Peter and Paul: a Ghost Story? — 135

Pierre Montebello

The Test of Time: Human and Cosmic Time — 165

Part Three: The Nature of Time, the Time of Nature

Eugenio Coccia

The Time of Physics — 187

Christian Wüthrich

One Time, Two Times, or No Time? — 209

Michel Weber

The Ontological Roots of Temporality — 231

Luca Vanzago

On the Notion of Processuality in Whitehead: Concrescence and Transition Correlated — 251

Matthew D. Segall

Time and Experience in Physics and Philosophy: Whiteheadian Reflections on Bergson, Einstein, and Rovelli — 273

Part Four: Metaphysics, Logic, Neuroscience, Biology and Cosmology of Time

Claudio Calosi

No Time for (No) Change — 301

Jean-Claude Dumoncel

Between the Time of Physics and the Time of Metaphysics, the Time of Tense
Logic? — 331

Marc Wittmann, Carlos Montemayor

Reinterpreting the Einstein-Bergson Debate through Contemporary Neuroscience — 349

Giuseppe Longo

Today's ecological relevance of Bergson-Einstein debate on time — 375

Marco Bersanelli

The Age of the Universe — 407

List of Contributors — 433

Index — 437