

TABLE OF CONTENTS

11	CHAPTER 1	87	CHAPTER 3
	The Objectives of this Book, State of Research, and Methodological Reflections on the Interpretation of Mural Paintings		A Political Reading of Antonio Verrio's Murals for the Royal Reception Spaces at Windsor Castle
12	Britain and the Continent, 1660–1727	89	The Rebuilding and Redecoration of Windsor Castle
13	Art and Crisis	93	A Visit to the King's Apartment
14	State of Research	105	The Queen's Apartment
15	Approaches to the Topic	108	Verrio's Murals as Agents of Conflict Resolution
16	Cultural Transfer and the Translational Turn	110	Pictorial Conflict Resolution at Windsor Castle: Antonio Verrio, Catherine of Braganza, and the Popish Plot
19	Political Painting: Beyond Iconography	117	Confessional Issues in the King's Chapel
20	Conflict Resolution and the Agency of the Image	121	Throne and Altar: St George's Hall and Its Relationship to the Chapel
23	Individual and Cultural Memory	125	Models from England, France, Italy? Cultural Transfer and Pictorial Translation
26	Bild-Raum-Wissenschaft: Spaces of Translation, Performativity, Reception	128	Modes of Reception, Layers of Meaning, and the Blessings of Ambiguity
28	Early Modern Roots of Brexit Debates	131	Reformatting Cultural Memory
35	CHAPTER 2	147	CHAPTER 4
	Dawn of a New Era: The Triumphal Arches for the Coronation Entry (1661)		Representations of the Monarchy in London: Verrio's Murals at Christ's Hospital and the Royal Hospital at Chelsea
36	Sites and Subjects of the Triumphal Arches	147	Christ's Hospital: The Commission to Antonio Verrio as a Result of Multiple Crises
44	The Designer of the Triumphal Arches and His Continental Models	150	The Rebuilding of Christ's Hospital and the Original Site of Verrio's Mural
61	Britain and the Continent in the Coronation Entry
64	Past – Present – Future
67	Conflict Resolution
74	Reception

155	Christ’s Hospital and the Exclusion Crisis	237	CHAPTER 6
159	Conflict Resolution: Verrio’s Final Design for Christ’s Hospital		Hampton Court – the English Versailles?
164	Mediators: Samuel Pepys, Antonio Verrio, and Collective Memory	238	Questions of Precedence: William and Mary’s Residences
167	The Royal Hospital at Chelsea and Britain’s Rivalry with France	242	Imitation of the French Court
169	The Setting and Iconography of Verrio’s Chelsea Mural	243	Rivalry between England and France after the Peace of Ryswick
173	Querelle des Anciens et des Modernes : Rome, Paris, and London	245	Royal Representation after Ryswick
178	Throne and Altar at Chelsea Hospital	248	The King’s Staircase: Previous Interpretations and a New Proposal
189	CHAPTER 5	257	The Author of the Programme: Matthew Prior and the Culture of Understatement
	Louis Laguerre Paints the “Glorious Revolution” at Chatsworth	263	Nation and Gender in the Queen’s Drawing Room
189	William Cavendish’s Background and Political Agenda	274	Conclusion: Hampton Court – the English Versailles?
192	Rivalry with the Courts of England and France	285	CHAPTER 7
198	The Painted Hall: State of Research and Open Questions		National Glory in the Architecture and Pictorial Decoration of the Painted Hall at Greenwich
204	Caesar in Translation: British Discourses on a Controversial Figure	288	Britain and the Continent I: Artistic Rivalry
208	The Wall Paintings: Inter- and Intramedial Translations	294	The Architecture of the Painted Hall and the Aesthetics of the Sublime
216	The Ceiling Painting: An Image of Constitutional Monarchy	298	An Unrecognized Continental Model for Greenwich: The Galleria Colonna in Rome
222	Interaction with the Audience: Conflict Resolution and Cultural Memory	303	Who Designed the Architecture of the Painted Hall?
		308	The Painted Hall as a Monument to Queen Anne
		314	Britain and the Continent II: Conflict and Cooperation
		325	Epilogue: A Twenty-First-Century Response to the Painted Hall

337	CHAPTER 8	365	CHAPTER 9
	The Interaction of Images and Spaces:		Results
	Towards a New Methodology
338	Avenues of Approach	377	Plates
338	The Relationship between Exterior and Interior
340	Vestibules and Stairs	456	Appendices
340	Doors, Openings, Visual Frames	456	A Note on Datation
341	Windows, Vistas, and Murals	456	Appendix I: Documents concerning Christ’s
342	Painted Architectures		Hospital from the Metropolitan Archives, London
344	Architectural Ceilings and Painted Skies	461	Appendix II: Reports to the Tuscan Court
346	“Visual Doubles,” Imagined Space, and the Space	464	Appendix III: A Tuscan Embassy to London, 1695
	of the Viewer
347	Ceilings and Floors	472	Appendix IV: Prime Minister Boris Johnson’s
347	Rank and Gender: The Relationship between the		Speech at Greenwich, Delivered on 3 February
	Function and Decoration of Painted Spaces		2020
350	The Disposition of Murals within a Painted Room:	478	Bibliography
	Pairs and Groups of Images	478	Primary Sources and Editions of Documents
351	Visual Hierarchies and Degrees of Reality	485	Secondary Literature
352	Points of View, Sequential Perception, Movement
	in Space, and Directions within Paintings	514	Index of Names
354	Architectural Forms as Signifiers	520	Index of Places
355	Concettismo: Image, Architecture, and Text	523	Illustration Credits
356	Extended Forms of Concettismo	527	The Author
357	Spaces of Translation		