

1	Introduction	1
2	Independent and Corporate Venture Capital	7
2.1	New Venture Equity Financing	7
2.2	The Importance of Founders' Investor Selection	8
2.3	History and Recent Development of IVC and CVC	8
2.3.1	History of IVC and CVC	8
2.3.2	Recent Development of IVC and CVC	9
2.4	Commonalities and Differences Between IVC and CVC Investors	10
2.4.1	IVC and CVC Investor Interests	12
2.4.1.1	IVC Investor Interests	12
2.4.1.2	CVC Investor Interests	13
2.4.2	IVC- and CVC-Associated Benefits for New Ventures	19
2.4.2.1	IVC-Associated Benefits for New Ventures	19
2.4.2.2	CVC-Associated Benefits for New Ventures	22
2.4.3	IVC- and CVC-Associated Risks for New Ventures	27
2.4.3.1	IVC-Associated Risks for New ventures	27
2.4.3.2	CVC-Associated Risks for New ventures	28
2.5	Investor Selection in the Early Stage: Research Questions	33
2.6	Research Framework	34
3	Systematic Literature Review and Expert Interviews	35
3.1	Specifics of Literature Review	35
3.1.1	Journal and Literature Stream Selection	36
3.1.2	Allocation of Academic Papers to Literature Streams	37
3.1.3	Research Topic Selection	39

3.1.4	Identification of Relevant Papers and Sub-Categories	40
3.1.5	Paper Analysis and Identification of Additional Articles	41
3.2	Expert Interviews and Field Study	42
4	Attributes	45
4.1	Considered Attributes	45
4.1.1	Investor's Non-Financial Support	45
4.1.2	Investor's Non-Financial Interests	48
4.1.3	Investor's Reputation	50
4.1.4	Investor's Level of Control on Business Decisions	51
4.1.5	Equity Dilution	51
4.2	Reasoning for Attribute Selection	52
4.3	Non-selected Attributes	53
4.3.1	Personal Fit	53
4.3.2	Focus on Commercialization vs. Innovation	53
4.3.3	Willingness to Include Third-Party Financial Support	54
4.3.4	Availability of Follow-On Investments by The Same Investor	54
4.3.5	Defense Mechanisms	55
5	Empirical Study	57
5.1	Selection and Presentation of the Method SADR (Separated Adaptive Dual Response)	57
5.2	Study Design	59
5.2.1	SADR Section Design	59
5.3	Sample	63
5.4	Estimation	66
5.5	Results	68
5.5.1	Perceived Importance of Investor Selection	68
5.5.2	Goodness of Fit	68
5.5.3	Attribute Importance Weights and Level Coefficients	70
5.5.3.1	Assumption of CVC Valuation Discount	70
5.5.3.2	Assumption of Equal Valuations by IVCs and CVCs	71
5.5.4	Stated Attribute Importance	73
5.5.5	Case Example: Expected Likelihood of Investor Selection	74

5.5.6	Distribution of Equity Dilution Compensation Between IVC and CVC	74
5.5.7	Drivers of IVC and CVC Preference	80
6	Discussion	83
6.1	Research Summary	83
6.2	Theoretical Contributions	87
6.3	Practical Contributions	89
6.4	Limitations	91
6.5	Suggestions for Future Research	93
	References	97