

Table of Contents

Preface 3

1. Methods 5

2. Peace Mediation 7

2.1. Definition of Peace Mediation 7

2.2. Those involved and affected by Peace Mediation 9

2.3. Timing in Peace Mediation 10

2.4. Approaches to Peace Mediation 11

3. The Large Group Intervention approach 16

3.1. The roots of LGI 16

3.2. Key assumptions and characteristics of LGI 18

3.2.1. Whole system thinking 18

3.2.2. Self-organization and change 19

3.2.3. Facilitation in self-organization 21

3.2.4. Common ground orientation 22

3.2.5. Participation 24

3.2.6. Process-orientation 25

4. Analysis and conclusions 28

4.1. Spread of the LGI approach in the peace mediation field 28

4.1.1. Conceptual references in literature 29

4.1.2. Reference to practical application 30

4.2. Relevance and applicability of LGI to peace mediation 32

4.2.1. Impartial, facilitative, common ground oriented, prepared 32

4.2.2. Complexity 36

4.2.3. Inclusivity, participation, process-orientation, ownership 37

4.2.4. Understanding, trust and relationship building 43

4.3. Conditions and challenges to LGI in peace mediation 47

4.4. Situating the LGI approach in tracks and phases 52

5. Summary and discussion 54

Literature 59

Abbreviations 63

Annex 64

About the Author 68