

Contents

Foreword	6
The Art of Society	9
Life and Reform	22
Longing for What?	28
Images from the Modern Psyche: Edvard Munch's Frieze	34
Freedom of Expression	40
Who Were the Female Models for the Brücke Artists?	46
Rosa Schapire, More Than a "Passive" Brücke Member	56
How Is the Brücke Connected to Germany's Colonial History?	60
Slivers of the City	66
What Is "Modernity"?	70
At the Centre of the Metropolis: Potsdamer Platz	82
Ernst Ludwig Kirchner and Max Liebermann	88
Hannah Höch's Epochal Image of the Weimar Republic	94
The Powers of Der Sturm	100
Rediscovered Identity: Erich Mühsam	106
Women Artists at the Sturm Gallery	110
Trauma and Destruction	118
Where Did the First World War Take Place?	124
Who Were the Pillars of Society ?	130
Politics and Propaganda	136
Heinrich Vogeler Produced a New Form: The Komplexbild	140
Women in Need . The Struggle to Legalize Abortion	148
Modes of Abstraction	152
Creativity and Child's Play at the Bauhaus	156
Envoy of the Metaphysical: Hilma af Klint	170
The Architecture of Progress	174
A Railway Station with Three Bridges: Social Analysis in Painting	178
The Great Metaphysician – What's Wrong with It?	182
Dream Worlds	186
"Oscillation" and "Action Painting"	194
The Nonconformist Surrealist Leonor Fini	200

Sharp Looks	206
The New Feminine Self-Image	220
Who Is Sonja ?	224
Exile	230
What Is “Degenerate Art”?	234
A Discomforting Portrait by Max Beckmann	240
Faces of the Day	244
The Sculptor Renée Sintenis	248
Sculpture and the Human Being: Prometheus and Zwitter	254
War and Annihilation	258
Alice Lex-Nerlinger: Field-Grey Yields Dividends	262
Why Are Paintings Altered Retroactively?	270
Selected Bibliography	278
List of Names	282
Photo Credits and Copyrights	284
Acknowledgements	286
Imprint	288