

Table of Content

Introduction	7
Alexandre Castro-Caldas
Is Culture Exclusively Human?	11
Katja Mellmann
On the Evolutionary Substrates of Narrative	19
Vera Nünning
To Read and Why to Read: Interfaces between Culture, Stories and Cognition	41
Susanne Reichl
Why there is no such thing as a “Superreader:” On the cognitive strengths and weaknesses of literary reading	65
Ana Margarida Abrantes
Telling vs. Showing. Imagined dialogues, the conversation frame, and sense-making in the arts	79
Peter Hanenberg
The uncanny, the brain and the pleasure of ambiguity	93
Per Aage Brandt
Weather Reports: Discourse and Musical Cognition	99
Elisheva Rigbi
Music, Aesthetics And Cognition: ‘Musical Prose’ In the Fin De Siècle	113