

Contents

Acknowledgements.....	13
Abbreviations	15
1. Introduction: Exploring the New Perspective on Bavinck	17
1.1 The Conventional Reading of Bavinck's Theology	19
1.2 The New Organic Reading of Bavinck's Theology	21
1.2.1 Initial Explorations	21
1.2.2 Brian Mattson's Preliminary Elaboration.....	24
1.2.3 The New Reading of Organic Motif.....	25
1.3 A Promise of the New Reading	28
1.3.1 The Emergence of the Eglintonian School	28
1.3.2 Scientific Theology as a Promise	32
1.3.2.1 The Heritage of Christian Theology.....	33
1.3.2.2 A Hermeneutical Meta-Paradigm and Its Threefold Promise	35
2. Against the Stream: Bavinck's Refusal of the Unscientific Portrayals of Scientific Theology in the Nineteenth-Century Netherlands.....	39
2.1 Introduction.....	39
2.2 Religiewetenschap in the Nineteenth-Century Dutch Academy.....	40
2.2.1 The Nineteenth-Century Dutch Religious Science.....	40
2.2.2 Cornelis Petrus Tiele on Religious Science	41
2.2.3 Summary.....	49
2.3 Theological Modernism	50
2.3.1 The Groninger School	52
2.3.2 The Leiden School	53
2.3.3 The Ethical School	56
2.3.4 Malcontents	58
2.4 Concluding Remark: On Defending the Authentic Scientificity of Theology against the Stream	60
3. Herman Bavinck on Theology as the Science of God	63
3.1 Introduction.....	63

3.2	Bavinck's General Definition of Science.....	64
3.2.1	Twofold Wetenschap	64
3.2.2	The Notion of Science	67
3.3	Bavinck's Definitions of Dogma, Dogmatics and Theology	72
3.4	Bavinck's Project of Theology as the Science of God.....	75
3.4.1	Bavinck's Engagement with Julius Kaftan	75
3.4.2	Bavinck's Definition of Scientific Theology.....	80
3.4.2.1	God as the Real Object	81
3.4.2.2	Assumptions in Faith	84
3.4.2.3	Divine Object-Defining	87
3.4.3	The Task of the Science of God	90
3.4.3.1	The Organic System of the Knowledge of God	90
3.4.3.2	Serving the Church	91
3.4.3.3	Directing God's People to Worship God.....	92
3.4.3.4	Summary.....	93
3.5	Bavinck's Scientific Theology in relation to Neo-Calvinism
	More Broadly	93
3.5.1	Geerhardus Vos	93
3.5.2	Abraham Kuyper	97
3.6	Concluding Remarks.....	101
4.	The Grammar of Scientific Theology (I)	103
4.1	Introduction.....	103
4.2	Positive Revelationalism.....	104
4.2.1	The Experience of Revelation	104
4.2.2	Positive but not Positivistic: Tackling the Anticipatory Critique of Revelatory Positivism	109
4.2.3	Summary.....	113
4.3	Theological Organicism	114
4.3.1	Unity-in-Diversity and Diversity-in-Unity	114
4.3.2	The Common Idea in Theological Organism	116
4.3.3	The Growth of Scientific Theology unto the Telos	124
4.3.4	Summary.....	124
4.4	Organically Critical Realism	125
4.4.1	Organically Critical Realism: The Organic Correspondence between Subjective and Objective Revelation	126
4.4.2	Organically Critical Realism: The Dispensation of the Holy Spirit	131
4.4.3	Summary.....	136
4.5	Concluding Remarks on the First Three Rationales.....	137

5. The Grammar of Scientific Theology (II)	139
5.1 Introduction.....	139
5.2 Dialectical Catholicity	140
5.2.1 Standing in the Tradition.....	142
5.2.2 Moving Outwards.....	145
5.2.3 Summary.....	151
5.3 Doxological Teleology	152
5.3.1 Knowing God in Praising	152
5.3.2 Theocentricism and Relationality.....	157
5.3.3 Summary.....	162
5.4 Conclusion.....	163
6. ‘The Unassumed Is the Unhealed’: Bavinck’s Christological Approach to the Relationship between Theology and the Other Sciences	167
6.1 Introduction.....	167
6.2 The University or the Seminary: The Kuyper-Lindeboom Debates	168
6.2.1 Sphere Sovereignty: Modern or Orthodox?	168
6.2.2 Theological Encyclopaedia: Religious Science?	174
6.2.3 Summary.....	177
6.3 Bavinck’s Middle Way	178
6.3.1 Sphere Sovereignty	179
6.3.2 Theological Encyclopaedia	185
6.3.3 Summary.....	191
6.4 Bavinck on Theology as the Regina Scientiarum	192
6.4.1 The Logos-Christological Account	192
6.4.2 The Eschatological Account	198
6.4.3 Summary.....	202
6.5 Conclusion.....	204
7. A Bavinckian Approach to Scientific Theology in the University of the Twenty-First Century	205
7.1 Introduction.....	205
7.2 The Queen Being Dethroned: A Historical Survey of Theology in the University	206
7.2.1 The Honoured Queen	206
7.2.2 The Enlightened Humans, the Humiliated Queen	210
7.2.3 The Stubborn Queen	213

- 7.3 A Bavinckian Account of a Contemporary University Theologian 216
 - 7.3.1 To Be Humble yet Courageous 217
 - 7.3.1.1 The Humble yet Courageous Theologian:
God-vision 218
 - 7.3.1.2 The Humble yet Courageous Theologian:
Interdisciplinary Interaction 220
 - 7.3.1.3 The Humble yet Courageous Theologian:
Scholarly Appropriation 222
 - 7.3.2 The Ontological Priority of Human Agent..... 226
 - 7.3.2.1 The Human Agent qua Theologian..... 227
 - 7.3.2.2 The Human Agent qua University Academic 231
 - 7.3.3 Theological Ethics as an Interdisciplinary Point of Contact 234
 - 7.3.3.1 Theological Ethics in Bavinck’s System 236
 - 7.3.3.2 Theological Ethics as Operative in the University 238
- 7.4 Concluding Appraisal 241
- Conclusion 243
- Bibliography 249
 - Primary Sources 249
 - Sources by Herman Bavinck 249
 - Sources by Abraham Kuyper..... 252
 - Secondary Sources 253
 - Sources on Herman Bavinck..... 253
 - Sources on Abraham Kuyper 257
 - Sources on Dutch Theology 258
 - Sources on the University and Theology..... 260
 - Other Sources..... 261
- Name Index..... 269
- Subject Index..... 271