

Contents

Acknowledgments	11
Notes on Transliteration and Dates	13
I Introduction	15
II Stricken with Decline?	35
Economy, Environment and Rule	39
Changes in the Social Architecture of the Society: Mamluk Descendants (awlād al-nās)	50
III Ibn Iyās Through His Own Lenses	61
Is There a Self-Representative Approach in Ibn Iyās's Writings? Approaching Badā'ī al-zuhūr and 'Uqūd al-juman	61
Ibn Iyās on his Family	65
Ibn Iyās on Ibn Iyās	75
Ibn Iyās on his Teachers and Friends	79
Ibn Iyās's Intellectual Background: His Archive Reconstructed through Citations	81
Intellectual Changes—New Recipients?	85
IV Why and to Whom Does Ibn Iyās Write? Comparing Prefaces . . .	95
Analysis in Chronological Order	97
Nuzhat al-umam	97
Badā'ī ba'd al-khalq	99
Marj al-zuhūr	100
Nashq al-azhār	101
Badā'ī al-zuhūr	104
Poems as Frames	107
Conclusion to Chapter IV	111

V	Beyond Badā'ī' al-zuhūr	115
	Structuring Ibn Iyās's Oeuvre	115
	Tentative Chronology	115
	Questioning Genre	117
	Inventory of Texts and Manuscripts	125
	Main Source Base of the Study	126
	Further Texts and Manuscripts	140
VI	A Litterateur at Work: First Contacts between Egypt and Muslim
	Domination	147
	The Choice of Sample	147
	The 'Treasure Anecdote'	149
	Macro-Structure: The Outer Structure of the Texts	151
	The First Hypotext: Ibn 'Abd al-Ḥakam, Futūḥ Miṣr wa akhbārihā	151
	A Second Hypotext: Al-Maqrīzī's (766–845/1364–1442) Khiṭaṭ . . .	153
	The Hypertexts	154
	Meso-Structure: Building a Narrative	157
	Micro-Structure: Figurating Meaning	161
	Constructing Figures: Muslims and Copts	166
	Nuzhat al-umam	167
	Jawāhir al-sulūk	169
	Badā'ī' al-zuhūr	171
	Conclusion to Chapter VI	175
	Appendix to Chapter VI: The Anecdote on Maria the Copt as narrated in Nuzhat al-umam	177
VII	Narrating Mamluk Transitions of Rule	179
	The Narrative and the Narrated Put in Order: Sequentiality in the First Sample	192
	The Major Step to Badā'ī' al-zuhūr	196
	Travelling Plots, Changing Characteristics and the Magic of Addition	199
	Ceremonialized Narration as a Way of Representing Order (Even out of Chaos)	209
	Transition Narratives: The First Four Mamluk Sultans	209
	Transition Narratives: Al-Nāṣir Muḥammad's Three Reigns	217
	Conclusion to Chapter VII: Ibn Iyās's 'Imaginary Norm' of Stable Rule Narrated	224

VIII The Ottoman Conquest Narrated	227
The Discourse: Temporal and Spatial Organization of the Narrative	230
Temporal Dimensions and Frequency	230
Spatial Dimensions	234
Acting Figures and Groups: Mamluks vs. Ottomans	241
The Moment of Transition Narrated	247
Ottoman Characterization	252
Conclusion to Chapter VIII	269
IX Concluding Remarks and Research Prospects	271
Bibliography	287
Index of Names	309
Index of Subjects	311