

CONTENTS

- 7 Klaus Vogel
Preface
- 9 Ursula Haller, Christoph Herm, Susanne Roeßiger and Friederike Waentig
Introduction

ESSAYS

- 19 Julia Bienholz-Radtke and Maria Lörzel
History of the production of the Transparent Figures 1945–2000
SPOTLIGHT
- 35 Julia Bienholz-Radtke and Anna Zabel
“... showing the figure as a work of art”
- 41 Julia Bienholz-Radtke
Transparent Women. An exhibition history
SPOTLIGHT
- 59 Katya Braghini
The Transparent Women of Dresden in Brazil. A report
- 67 Benjamin Kemper
Understanding and slowing ageing processes
SPOTLIGHT
- 81 Friederike Waentig
Material history of cellulose acetate
- 89 Maria Lörzel
Damage assessment and possibilities for active conservation
SPOTLIGHT
- 105 Ursula Haller
Preserving Transparent Figures. Thoughts on the conservation and restoration of very special historical objects
- 113 Maria Lörzel
The practical conservation of the Transparent Man from 1935 in the Deutsches Hygiene-Museum
- 123 Maria Lörzel, Benjamin Kemper, Ursula Haller, Christoph Herm and Friederike Waentig
Recommendations for the preservation of three-dimensional objects of cellulose acetate

CATALOGUE

- 132 Julia Bienholz-Radtke and Manuel Vojtech
Introduction to the “Transparent Figures” collection holdings

136 CURRICULA VITAE

- 138 Transparent Man from 1935
144 Transparent Woman from 1935/36
150 Transparent Man from 1962/63
154 Transparent Cow from 1982/83
158 Transparent Pregnant Woman from 1985
162 Transparent Cell from 1987
166 Transparent Humans since the 1990s

172 FOCUS

- 172 Maria Lörzel and Julia Bienholz-Radtke
Between hand-made article and series production
196 Julia Bienholz-Radtke
Key objects of health education
230 Manuel Vojtech
Sound and technology – a media history
244 Julia Bienholz-Radtke and Anna Zabel
Advertising media, trademarks and export size

APPENDIX

- 260 Authors
262 List of illustrations
264 Imprint