

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Abbreviations xi

Introduction: Challenges and Opportunities for the Study of German 1

Rachel J. Halverson and Carol Anne Costabile-Heming

1: German Studies: The Short Version 15

Frank Trommler

I. Curriculum

2: Ten Years of “The Making of Modern Europe”—
Language, History, and Culture: A Retrospective 31

Lynne Tatlock

3: Medieval Studies within German Studies:
The Nibelungenlied and Hartmann von Aue’s
Der arme Heinrich 52

Albrecht Classen

II. Initiatives

4: Thriving in the New Normal: Meeting the Challenges of Doing More with Less in Twenty-First-Century German Studies 71

Kathleen Condray

5: Responding to a Changing Profession: A Reflection on AATG Programs and Their Effects on German at a Liberal Arts Institution 89

Gregory H. Wolf

6: EIKK: A Case for Professional Development Rachel J. Halverson	104
7: The KEFKO Summer Seminar in Leipzig: Making Sense of the Proficiency Assessment to Articulate Program Curriculum and Study Abroad Regina Braker	114
III. Research
8: Leadership and Its Ripple Effect on Research Aleidine J. Moeller and Sheri Hurlbut	137
9: Woher und wohin? Twenty-Six Years of Die Unterrichtspraxis/Teaching German Kurt Buhanan and Glenn S. Levine	155
10: Matching Student and Teaching Perceptions for the Retention of University German Students Teresa R. Bell	200
11: “Guidelines” for Future Professionals: A Case for Graduate Training in Assessment Traci S. O’Brien	226
IV. The New Millennium
12: Enhancing and Sustaining University German Programs through Consortium Building Lynn Marie Kutch	251
13: An Immodest Proposal: Reenvisioning German Studies through European Integration Martin Kagel and William Collins Donahue	272
Selected Bibliography	291
Contributors	303
Index	309