

Contents

Michael Ashby

The digital history of phonetic science7

Fabian Brackhane, Richard Sproat & Jürgen Trouvain

Editing Kempelen's "Mechanismus der Menschlichen Sprache":
Experiences and Findings16

Fabian Brackhane & Mária Gósy

Kempelen's speaking machine: Experiences with replicas25

Rüdiger Hoffmann & Gritta Gramm

The Sennheiser Vocoder Goes Digital – On a German R&D Project in the 1970s.....35

Pavel A. Skrelin & Ulyana E. Kochetkova

Standard French vowel formants vs. characteristic tones of Rousselot:
Tuning forks technique reconsidered.....45

Takayuki Arai

Chiba and Kajiyama measured 3D configurations of the human vocal tract and made physical models based on the measurements55

Daniel Aalto

Origins of source filter theory from Mersenne (1636) to Müller (1839).....61

Angelika Braun

From Visible Speech to voiceprints – blessing and curse of sound spectrography68

Murray Schellenberg

Music, notation and the representation of lexical tone79

Daniel Duran

On the History of Computational Modelling and Simulations in the Phonetic Sciences89

Author Index99