1 Foreword.....	7
1.1 About Me	7
1.2 About This Book.....	9
1.3 Overview	13
2 What Is Computer Science?.....	15
2.1 Summary	15
2.2 What Does Computer Science Want to Be?.....	16
2.2.1 The Natural Sciences.....	17
2.2.2 The Engineering Sciences	21
2.2.3 The Philosophical Sciences.....	24
2.2.4 Computer Science.....	26
2.3 What Does Computer Science Do?	29
2.3.1 Computer Science as an Engineering Science	29
2.3.2 How Computer Science Changes the World?.....	33
2.4 The Job Description of a Computer Scientist.....	36
2.4.1 Why Is There No Good Job Description Out There?	36
2.4.2 Vertical vs. Horizontal Computer Science	36
2.5 The History of Computer Science	39
2.5.1 The Five Eras of the IT Industry.....	39
2.5.2 Speculation About the Future	45
3 Classic Computer Science.....	47
3.1 Summary	47
3.2 Areas of Classic Computer Science.....	48
3.3 Elements of Classic Computer Science	49
3.4 Architecture.....	52
3.4.1 Models	52
3.4.2 Modeling.....	55
3.4.3 Why Do So Many Software Projects Fail?.....	56
3.4.4 KISS: Keep it Simple, Stupid	57
3.4.5 Teamwork	59
3.5 Behavior: What Is a Function?	61
3.5.1 Imperative Programming	61
3.5.2 Correctness and Completeness.....	66

Content

3.5.3 Complexity (Efficiency)	69
3.5.4 Flexibility: High-Level Programming Languages	72
3.6 Customization and Configuration	75
4 Artificial Intelligence (AI)	77
4.1 Summary	77
4.2 The Dream of Artificial General Intelligence	78
4.3 What Is Different?	80
4.3.1 Big Data, Data Science, Machine Learning	80
4.3.2 Data-Driven Artificial Intelligence	85
4.4 Logic vs. Experience	88
4.4.1 Experience Usually Wins	89
4.4.2 Limitations of Experience	92
4.4.3 Reinforcement Learning: Deep Blue, Jeopardy, AlphaGo, Ms. Pacman	95
4.5 Deep Neural Networks (DNN)	97
4.5.1 Principles of Neural Networks	97
4.5.2 Neural Networks as a Programming Language	101
4.6 Software 2.0	105
4.6.1 Limitations of Traditional Programming (Software 1.0)	105
4.6.2 Machine Teaching	111
4.6.3 Classic Computer Science and Software 2.0	113
4.7 Security, Privacy, and Integrity	115
4.7.1 Confidentiality and Privacy	116
4.7.2 Integrity	119
4.7.3 Availability	121
The End	123
