

Contents

1	What is Political Conservatism?	1
1.1	Political Conservatism: Concept and History	1
1.1.1	Understanding Politics	1
1.1.2	Understanding Conservatism	5
1.2	Conservatism and Religion: A Brief Study of Edmund Burke	10
1.2.1	The Religion and the Politics: Separation and Cooperation	14
1.2.2	The Church and the State in Modern World	19
1.2.3	The Religious Movements and the State	24
1.2.4	The Necessity of Political Consecration	26
1.3	Liberal Conservatism as a Reconciliation of Liberty and Authority	44
2	What is Religious Reformation?	47
2.1	Religious Reformation: Concept and History	47
2.2	Political Theology of Shiism	54
2.2.1	An Introduction to the Political Shiism	55
2.2.2	The Myth of [positive] Innovation in Shiite Uṣūlī School: A Case of the “Bad Rationalization”	58
2.2.3	The Myth of Mystical Shiism: The Negligence of Political Shiism from Corbin to Shaygan	66
2.2.4	Young Khomeini and his Kashf al-Asrār , 1944	76
2.2.5	Shiite Conservatism and Political Shiism: Khomeini Against Clergies	79

xxiii

3	Constitutionalism, Religion & Modernization	95
3.1	Politics and Religion in the Late Qajar Dynasty (1905–1925)	97
3.2	Instrumentalist Approach of Pahlavi Toward Religion	110
3.2.1	Reza Shah and Religion: the Rise of Pahlavi Monarchy	113
3.2.2	Mohammad Reza Shah and Religion: A Paradoxical Monarchy or a Monarchy That Tried to be Secular in a Paradoxical Society	120
3.2.3	The Empress and the Political Meeting with “A Respected Ayatollah”	127
3.2.4	The Inevitability of the Instrumentalist Approach and the Peaceful Religiosity in Pahlavis	129
3.3	From the “Possible” Democratization to the Collapse of Pahlavi	132
3.3.1	The Realpolitik, the Society, and the Constitution	132
3.3.2	The Expeditious Collapse of the Pahlavi System	145
3.3.3	The Image of Shah: The Attribution of Paradoxical Characteristics	157
3.4	Beautiful Monarchy and Sublime Theocracy: The Political Aesthetics of Western Attitude Toward Pahlavi and Khomeini	164
3.4.1	Pahlavi and “Oriental Despotism”	164
3.4.2	Pahlavi and the Sublimity	178
4	From the Constitutional Revolution to the Shiite Ideology	193
4.1	Rethinking of Iranian Conservatism	194
4.1.1	The Theme is About the Monarchical Conservatism in Pre-revolutionary Iran	195
4.1.2	Ancient Iranian Conservatism was Relatively Tolerant as a Bureaucratic Political Authority Toward Religious Diversities	199
4.1.3	The Failure of Pahlavi Conservatism: On the Contradictory and Self-destructive Heritage	204
4.2	Islamic Revolution as a Result of Antagonism Between Politics and Religion	223
4.2.1	The Inevitability of the Revolution 1979: Determinism or Voluntarism	223

4.2.2	Revolutionary Machiavellism of the anti-Shah Opposition: The Sacred Instrumentalism	235
4.3	The Islamic Republic and the New Formation of Political Conservatism	258
4.3.1	The Stubborn Shape of an Ostensibly Shapeless Regime	258
4.3.2	The Green Movement of 2009 and the Patriotic Uprisings since 2018: The Replacement of Discourse and Leadership	277
4.3.3	The Reformers Conserve an Incurable System: A Story of a Successful Propaganda	292
4.3.4	Religious Intellectualism: The Failed Reform and the Successful Conservation	294
4.3.5	Iranian Culture, the Islamic Republic, and the West: A Persistent Misknowledge	307
	Conclusion	319
	Glossary	329
	Bibliography	341