

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	11
Approach, Objective, and Structure of the Book	11.-
Freedom for Research, or: What was Morphomata?	14
I PRELIMINARY NOTES
1. PORTRAIT	23
1.1 Focusing the Notion	23.-
of Portraits	26.-
1.3 Portrait Details	27.-
1.4 Faceless
Portraits	30.-
1.5 The Spectrum of Portraiture	38
2. FIGURATION	39
2.1 “μορφώματα ... quas nos figuras sive figurationes possumus
dicere”	39.-
2.2 Modalities of Shaping	43.-
2.3 In Search
of Lost Form	47
3. PARTICULARITY	49
3.1 Semper specialia generalibus insunt	49.-
Individual: Socrates	50.-
3.3 Becoming Particular:
Compliance and Deviance	53.-
3.4 Individuum / Dividuum	55.-
3.5 Designating Particularity	56
II COMPLEMENTARY FIGURATIONS OF THE PARTICULAR
1. IMAGE AND INDIVIDUAL	63
1.1 Seal Emblem and Self	63.-
1.2 Image as Name	68
2. STRATEGIES OF DISTINCTION: THE EXAMPLE OF AUGUSTUS	83

3. EXTENSIONS OF THE PORTRAIT	99
-------------------------------	----

3.1 Multiplication of Likenesses 99.-	3.2 Accompanying Figures as Characterization 103.-	3.3 Biographical Sequences 108
---------------------------------------	--	--------------------------------

III ARCHAEOLOGICAL CASE STUDIES

1. FICTIONAL PORTRAITS: HOMER AND HIS CHARACTERS	115
--	-----

2. SOCRATES: THE EXEMPLARY INDIVIDUAL AND HIS PORTRAIT	129
--	-----

2.1 Genesis 129.-	2.2 Medial Conditions 135.-	2.3 Impact 143
-------------------	-----------------------------	----------------

3. ALEXANDER, SINGULAR FROM THE BEGINNING	149
---	-----

4. CONSPICUOUS AMONG PARTICULARS: POMPEY	157
--	-----

4.1 Prominence Without a Name 157.-	4.2 Portraits as Reflection of Rivalry 161.-	4.3 Paradox and Particular 165
-------------------------------------	--	--------------------------------

5. BECOMING INCOMPARABLE: AUGUSTUS AGAIN	173
--	-----

5.1 Particular and Everywhere the Same 173.-	5.2 New Role, New Face: Changes in Octavian's Portraits 175.-
--	---

5.3 Novus et amplior , Portraits of the Incomparable 183

6. ADAPTATION AND EMANCIPATION OF SUCCESSORS	187
--	-----

6.1 In the Shadow of the Unique 187.-	6.2 Difference as Distinction 190.-	6.3 Continuity and Break 199.-	6.4 Change of Rulers, Continuity of Rule 202
---------------------------------------	-------------------------------------	--------------------------------	--

IV THE PARTICULAR BECOMES GENERAL

1. ADMONITION AND EXEMPLAR	207
----------------------------	-----

1.1 The Particular as Exemplum 207.-	1.2 Individuality through Assimilation 213.-	1.3 From the Singular to the Distinctive: Insignia, Seals, and Names, Again 221
--------------------------------------	--	---

2. LIKENESS AND IDENTITY	225
--------------------------	-----

2.1 "Something in Between": Diotima Teaches Socrates 225.-	2.2 Imagined Portraits 230.-	2.3 Reduction of Similarity, Loss of Identity? 235
--	------------------------------	--

3. PORTRAIT AS MASS PHENOMENON	243
3.1 Singular and Serial Portraits	243.-
3.2 Repetition and Special Requests	244.-
3.3 Variety of Series	256

V FINDING THE PARTICULAR

1. WAYS OF FINDING	263
1.1 Putting Names to Heads	263.-
1.2 Argument and Intuition	271.-
1.3 Doubt and Confirmation: Peiresc Asks, Rubens Explains	277.-
1.4 Scholarly Discourses: The Dialectics of Searching	282
2. THE POTENCY OF NAMES	287
2.1 Identification as Interpretation	287.-
2.2 A Name Seeking a Portrait	292.-
2.3 Identity of Names, Ambivalence of Identity	295.-
2.4 Mechanisms of Acceptance	298
3. TYPOLOGY: UNITY AND VARIETY OF THE PARTICULAR	305
3.1 Portrait Types	305.-
3.2 Elaborating Differences	308.-
3.3 Replica Critique: The General from the Particular	311

ABBREVIATIONS

Lexica, Series, Journals	317
Ancient Authors	317
Monographs and Articles	318

INDICES

1. Greek and Latin Texts	323
2. Ancient Persons	329
3. Museums and Collections	336
4. Image Credits	341
Plates	353