

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

List of Maps — XI

List of Figures — XIII

List of Tables — XV

Notes on Contributors and Acknowledgements — XVII

Sources: List of Abbreviations used in Citations — XXI

Glossary: Names and Spelling — XXIII

Brian P. Farrell

From Far East to Asia Pacific: Great Powers and Grand Strategy, 1900–1954 — 1

Section One

Brian P. Farrell

Follow the Money: E for Economics and Grand Strategy — 15

Shannon A. Brown

Grand Strategy by Other Means: US Foreign Policy, Public-Private Collaboration, and “Employing all Proper Methods in China,” 1895–1914 — 19

Yamamoto Fumihito

Follow the Money: The Manchurian Incident, Economic Recovery and Japan’s Policy Change in the 1930s — 49

Section Two

David J. Ulbrich

Military Power in Grand Strategy, 1900–1954 — 81

David J. Ulbrich

Facing the Rising Sun in the Pacific: Grand Strategy, the US Marine Corps and Amphibious Capabilities, 1900–1941 — 85

Brian P. Farrell

Twilight in China: Great Powers and the Defence of Shanghai, 1925–1937 — 113

Charles Burgess

“To Treat China as a Great Power”: Great Britain, Southeast Asia, and American Grand Strategy for the Defeat of Japan, 1941–1945 — 151

Karl Hack

Grand Strategy and Its Layers: Britain and Southeast Asia, 1946–1954 — 183

Section Three

S.R. Joey Long

Diplomacy, (Hot and Cold) War, and Grand Strategy, 1940–1954 — 217

Jeremy A. Yellen

What Grand Strategy? Japan, 1931–1945 — 221

Andrea Benvenuti

Frustrating the Americans and Befriending the Communists: Nehru’s Policy in the Early Asian Cold War, 1947–1954 — 251

Lauriane Simony

The British Council and Its Rivals: Great Powers’ Cultural Competition in Post-Independence Burma, 1948–1955 — 281

S.R. Joey Long

Adversaries, Allies and the Shaping of US Grand Strategy: The Eisenhower Administration and the 1954 Geneva Conference — 309

Marek W. Rutkowski

Expanding the Area of Peace: India and the Geneva Conference of 1954 — 339

Coda

Brian P. Farrell

On Two Doorsteps: Middle Powers and Grand Strategy — 363

Peter Dean

Managing Great Power Allies: Australian Grand Strategy in Asia, 1900–1954 — 365

Brian P. Farrell

Reflections: Making Sense of and Shaping Order in the Asia-Pacific 1900–1954 — 393

Index — 397