

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Part One: Contexts of Social Justice Teaching	1
Chapter One: Possibilities in Practice: Introduction and Contextual Background	3
Summer Melody Pennell and Ashley S. Boyd
Chapter Two: Theoretical and Historical Foundations of Social Justice Teaching	15
Hillary Parkhouse, Ashley S. Boyd, and Summer Melody Pennell
Part Two: Pre-K–Elementary: Social Justice and Primary Students: How Early Is Too Early?	25
Chapter Three: Re-drawing the Line: Queering Our Pedagogy in the Early Childhood Classroom	27
Pre-Kindergarten Laura Bower-Phipps, Jessica S. Powell, Marissa Bivona, Rebecca Harmon, and Anne Olcott
Chapter Four: we are : Exploring an Anti-Racist Summer Program for Elementary Students	41
Kindergarten–3rd Grade Ronda Taylor Bullock, Cherish Williams, Daniel Kelvin Bullock, and Stef Bernal-Martinez

Chapter Five: Immigration Today: Perspectives from Primary Classrooms 53
 2nd Grade
 Sunghee Shin and Beverly Milner (Lee) Bisland

Chapter Six: “Act Like a Girl!”: Preservice Elementary Teacher
 Perspectives of Gender Identity Development 65
 4th–5th Grade
 Elizabeth E. Saylor

Chapter Seven: One Social Justice Music Educator: Working Within and Beyond Disciplinary Expectations. 79
 Kindergarten–5th Grade
 Alison LaGarry

Part Three: Middle Grades: Investigating Equity with Middle Grades
 Youth: Personalizing Justice for Students and Teachers 91

Chapter Eight: Reading the Math on Marriage Equality: Social Justice
 Lessons in Middle School. 93
 5th–7th Grade
 Summer Melody Pennell and Bryan Fede

Chapter Nine: Cultivating Communities of Care: Story Circles as Social Justice Practice. 107
 6th–7th Grade
 Courtney B. Cook and Celina Martínez Nichols

Chapter Ten: Fixing the World: Social Justice in World History. 121
 7th Grade
 Jeff A. Greiner

Chapter Eleven: Technology Integration in Urban Middle School
 Classrooms: How Does Culturally Relevant Pedagogy Support 1:1
 Technology Implementation? 133
 6th–8th Grade
 Lana M. Minshew, Martinette Horner, and Janice L. Anderson

Chapter Twelve: What’s Science Got To Do with It? Possibilities for Social Justice in Science Classroom Teaching and Learning 145
 8th–9th Grade
 Alexis Patterson, Deb Morrison, and Alexandra Schindel

Part Four: High School Grades: Justice and Teens: Curricular
 Approaches to Equity in High School 159

Chapter Thirteen: “Project Read Freely”: Using Young Adult Literature to Engender Student Choice in an English Language Arts Classroom 161
 9th Grade
 Ashley S. Boyd, Alyssa Bauermeister, and Holly Matteson

Chapter Fourteen: Geography Matters: Face-to-Face Contact Pedagogies to Humanize Unfamiliar Ethnocultural Differences 175
9th Grade
Joanne M. Pattison-Meek

Chapter Fifteen: “I, Too, Sing America”: Operationalizing #WeAreNotThis and
#BlackLivesMatter in an English Classroom. 187
9th Grade
Jeanne Dyches

Chapter Sixteen: Teaching Columbus to Newcomer Students:
Social Justice in the Classroom and Across the Urban Landscape 201
9th–10th Grade
Jay M. Shuttleworth and Josef Donnelly

Chapter Seventeen: “Couch the Oppression in Resistance”:
Teaching Strategies for Social Change Through U.S. History 213
11th Grade
Hillary Parkhouse

Chapter Eighteen: “It’s Like We Were Slow-Roasted ... But in a Really Good Way”: Embedded Y-PAR in a U.S. History Course. 225
11th Grade
Brian Gibbs

Chapter Nineteen: Students as Researchers: A Co-teaching Narrative
from a Social Justice-Oriented U.S. Government Class. 237
12th Grade
Linsay DeMartino and Sara Rusk

Notes on Contributors 251

Index 257