

Table of Contents

List of Illustrations — XIII

1 Introduction: Memory in Medieval Literature — 1

- 1.1 References to Memory — 1
- 1.2 Medieval Notions of Memory — 5
- 1.3 Theoretical Perspectives — 8
- 1.4 Methodological Issues — 11
- 1.5 A Transitional Moment in Literary History — 14
- 1.6 The Structure of this Book — 16

2 Memorizing by Way of Books — 21

- 2.1 Interacting Cultures — 21
 - 2.1.1 Minnugir Men — 21
 - 2.1.2 Authorship and Memory — 24
 - 2.1.3 Rhetoric and Memoria — 28
 - 2.1.4 Klerkligar listir and Memoria — 30
- 2.2 The Fear of Forgetting — 31
 - 2.2.1 Memory's Enduring Complement — 34
- 2.3 Two Co-Existing Storehouses — 37
 - 2.3.1 Preferences of Memory to Writing — 38
- 2.4 Living Memory and Cultural Memory — 40
 - 2.4.1 The History of Memory and Media History — 43

3 Imageries — 45

- 3.1 Formulating and Constructing Memory — 45
 - 3.1.1 Jóns saga helga: Memory, the Heart and the Breast — 47
 - 3.1.2 Learning, Bees and Beehives — 49
 - 3.1.3 Hungrvaka: Memory as Stomach — 52
- 3.2 The Prose Edda: A Norse Art of Memory — 55
 - 3.2.1 Memory in the Breast — 57
 - 3.2.2 Memory in the Brain — 61
 - 3.2.3 A Spitting and Excreting Eagle — 62
 - 3.2.4 Suffocation and Honeybees — 67
- 3.3 Egils saga Skallagrímssonar — 70
 - 3.3.1 Inventing and Memorizing Poetry — 72
 - 3.3.2 Resorting to 'the Depths of the Mind' and 'the Hiding Place of Thought' — 73

- 3.3.3 Constructing Buildings in the Mind — 76
- 3.3.4 Characterizing a Memory Expert — 79

4 Technologies — 84

- 4.1 Mnemonic Methods — 84
 - 4.1.1 The Place-Image Method — 85
 - 4.1.2 Early Christian and Medieval Mnemonics — 91
 - 4.1.3 From Roman to Norse Mnemonics — 97
- 4.2 Channels of Communication — 98
- 4.3 Gylfaginning — 103
 - 4.3.1 A Hall of Memory: Háva holl — 104
 - 4.3.2 Mnemonic Topographies and Graphics — 107
 - 4.3.3 A Three-Seated Throne — 112
- 4.4 Hand Mnemonics — 115

5 The Senses — 122

- 5.1 To See and to Remember — 122
- 5.2 The Mind's Eye — 125
 - 5.2.1 The Stave Church Homily — 126
 - 5.2.2 Mnemonics and Beyond — 129
 - 5.2.3 Instruments of Memory and Learning — 130
 - 5.2.4 Konungs skuggsjá — 134
 - 5.2.5 Seeing in and with Memory — 136
- 5.3 Visualization Strategies — 139
 - 5.3.1 The One-Eyed God — 139
 - 5.3.2 A High Seat with a View — 142
 - 5.3.3 Huginn and Muninn — 145
 - 5.3.4 High Above from the Rainbow — 148
- 5.4 Mnemonic Performances — 150
 - 5.4.1 Völuspá: Accessing Mnemonic Spaces — 152
 - 5.4.2 Grímnismál: Navigating Mnemonic Spaces — 156
 - 5.4.3 To Remember and to Learn — 164

6 Buildings and Seating — 168

- 6.1 Houses, Table Arrangements and Narratives — 168
 - 6.1.1 Brennu-Njáls saga: Searching the Ruins — 170
 - 6.1.2 Egils saga Skallagrímssonar: Grotesque Images — 179
- 6.2 Recollection, Rhetoric and Persuasion — 187
 - 6.2.1 Literary Representation and Mnemonic Devices — 189

6.3 Seating Devices in Mythological Texts — 1926.3.1 Lokasenna: A Seat in Ægis holl — 193*7 Cartography — 201*7.1 Geographical Abstractions — 201*7.1.1 World Maps and Mnemonics — 203*7.1.2 The Prose Edda Prologue and Ynglinga saga: Visualizing Time and Space — 205*7.1.3 Ekphrastic Texts — 213*7.2 Remembering a Vastness of Names — 214*7.2.1 Landnámabók: Listing Knowledge — 215*7.2.2 Geographical Organization — 218*8 Conclusion — 225*8.1 Literary Communication between Orality, Literacy and Memory — 225*8.2 Literature and Memory — 226*8.3 Perceptions of Memory — 227*8.4 The Theories — 229*8.5 A Leap Forward — 231*Bibliography — 233*Primary Sources — 233*Secondary Sources — 236*Indexes — 255*Personal names — 255*Texts — 257*Manuscripts — 259*General Index — 260