

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

Introduction — 1

Part 1 Early Italian Colonialism

1 Italy's Domestic and International Situation after the Unification — 9

2 The Italian Imperial Tradition, Colonial Theories, and the First Exploration Missions — 25

2.1 The Psychological Impact of Italy's Past — 25

2.2 The First Exploration Missions — 30

2.3 The Geographical-colonial Societies — 38

2.4 The "African Tendency" takes Over — 43

3 Italy's Politico-strategic Position in the Mediterranean — 47

3.1 The Diplomatic Background — 47

3.2 Tunisia — 48

3.3 Libya — 61

3.4 Egypt — 65

3.5 Morocco — 67

3.6 In Search of Security in the Mediterranean — 68

4 Eritrea, the First Italian Colony — 71

4.1 The Establishment of the Italian Colony in Eritrea — 71

4.2 The Functioning of Italian Eritrea — 108

Part 2 Early Japanese Colonialism

1 Japan's Domestic and International Situation after the Restoration — 155

1.1 Introduction — 155

1.2 The Foreign Threat — 156

1.3 Internal Politics — 160

1.4 The New-born State's Financial Situation — 163

1.5 Meiji Social Reform and Opposition — 171

1.6 Early Japan and the West — 175

2 The Japanese Imperial Tradition, Colonial Theories and the First Exploration Missions — 178

2.1 Introduction — 178

2.2 Migration as Vehicle for Expansion — 179

2.3 Migration to the US and the Case of Hawaii — 182

2.4 Colonial Imagery — 188

2.5 Western Influence and the Development of Schemes of Expansion and of Colonial Theories — 189

2.6 The South Seas (Nan'yō) — 202

2.7 The Philippines — 206

2.8 The Pressure Groups and Colonial Societies in Early Meiji Japan — 208

3 Japan's Politico-strategic Position in the Far East — 214

3.1 Sakhalin and the Kuril Islands — 214

3.2 Hokkaidō — 218

3.3 The Ainu — 221

3.4 The First Phase of Modern Japanese-Korean Relations — 223

3.5 The Ryūkyū Islands and the Soejima Mission — 225

3.6 Seikanron (Debate on Invasion of Korea) — 229

3.7 The Annexation of Ryūkyū — 231

3.8 The Opening of Korea — 234

3.9 Japanese against Other Imperialisms in Korea — 237

3.10 Japan's Imperialism in the Continent and the First Sino-Japanese War — 242

3.11 The Peace Treaty that Produced Japan's First Overseas Colonies — 249

3.12 The Shocking Triple Intervention — 250

4 Taiwan, the First Japanese Colony — 255

4.1 The First Japanese expedition to Taiwan — 256

4.2 The Conquest, Administration, and Function of Japanese Taiwan — 274

Conclusions — 346

Bibliography — 394

Index — 422