

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	What Are Panels?	1
1.2	What Characterizes Panels?	2
	Reference	6
2	The Elements of a Panel	7
2.1	Overview	7
2.2	The Universe	7
2.2.1	Overview of the Universe	7
2.2.2	The Universe of a Retail Panel	8
2.2.3	The Universe of a Consumer Panel	12
2.2.4	The Universe of a Television Audience Panel	14
2.3	The Sample	15
2.3.1	Requirements for the Panel Sample	15
2.3.2	The Sample of a Retail Panel	18
2.3.3	The Sample of a Consumer Panel	22
2.3.4	The Sample of the Television Audience Panel	26
2.4	The Data Collection	27
2.4.1	The Data Collection in the Retail Panel	27
2.4.2	The Data Collection in the Consumer Panel	27
2.4.3	Data Collection in the Television Audience Panel	31
2.4.4	Data Collection in the Internet Usage Panel	31
2.5	Coverage of Retail and Consumer Panel	32
2.5.1	Introduction	32
2.5.2	Coverage of the Retail Panel	33
2.5.3	Coverage of the Consumer Panel	34
2.6	Extrapolation	35
2.6.1	Extrapolation in the Retail Panel	36
2.6.2	Extrapolation in the Consumer Panel and the TV Audience Panel	38
	References	40

3	The Production Process	41
3.1	Overview	41
3.2	The Production Process in the Retail Panel	41
3.2.1	Data Input and Verification at Shop Level	41
3.2.2	Validation on Article Level	42
3.2.3	Extrapolation and Reporting	43
3.3	The Production Process in the Consumer Panel	44
3.4	The Production Process in the TV Audience Panel	45
3.5	Aspects of International Panel Research	45
4	The Market for Panel Research	47
	References	48
5	Institutional Panels	49
5.1	Classifications of Panels	49
5.2	The Retail Panel: the Origin of Institutional Panels	53
5.2.1	Current Developments in the Retail Panel	55
5.2.2	Types of Data in the Retail Panel	56
5.2.3	Data Sources and Data Availability	56
5.2.4	Specific Complements to the Retail Panel Nonfood	57
5.3	Consumer Panels	58
5.3.1	Consumer Panels: Household Versus Individual Panel	60
5.3.2	Possibilities of Data Collection in the Consumer Panel	60
5.3.3	Reporting Cycles in the Consumer Panel	64
6	Panels for Media Markets	67
6.1	The GfK Crossmedia Link Panel	67
6.2	Television Audience Panel	70
6.2.1	Special Features of the TV Audience Panel	70
6.2.2	Survey	71
6.2.3	Important Facts	72
6.2.4	Important Segments	74
7	Special Panels	75
7.1	Panels for Pharmaceutical Products	75
7.2	Agriculture Panel	77
7.3	Innovation Panel	79
7.4	Mobility Panel	82
7.5	Socio-Economic Panel	84
7.6	EBDC Business Panel	85
7.7	Test-Panels	86
7.8	Conclusion and Outlook	87

8	Product and Period Description	89
8.1	Product: Article Description	91
8.1.1	Definition of a Product Group: Category	91
8.1.2	The GTIN Code	92
8.1.3	Instore Codes	94
8.1.4	The ISBN and ISSN Code	94
8.2	Periods	96
8.2.1	Base Period Week	96
8.2.2	Aggregated Periods	97
9	Shops and Household Characteristics	101
9.1	General Segmentations in the Retail and Consumer Panel	101
9.1.1	Distribution Channel	102
9.1.2	Shop Types	103
9.1.3	Organization	105
9.1.4	Regions	105
9.2	Special Shops of the FMCG Product Groups	105
9.2.1	Drugstore/Perfumery	105
9.2.2	Beverage Specialty Stores	106
9.2.3	Department Stores	106
9.2.4	Convenience Channels	106
9.3	Special Outlets of the Consumer Panel	106
9.4	Special Outlets of the SMCG Product Groups	107
9.5	Household Characteristics in Consumer Panels	111
10	Facts of the Retail Panel	117
10.1	Overview	117
10.2	The Basic Facts of the Retail Panel	118
10.3	The Calculated Facts of the Retail Panel	119
11	Facts of the Consumer Panel	127
11.1	Overview	127
11.1.1	The Quantitative Facts of the Consumer Panel	128
11.1.2	The “Qualitative” Facts of the Consumer Panel	139
12	Special Analyses Retail Panel	143
12.1	Price-Related Analyses	143
12.1.1	Kinked Demand Curve	143
12.1.2	Monopolistic Sector	144
12.1.3	Price Elasticity of Demand	146
12.1.4	Dependence on the Prices of Competitors	147
12.2	Evaluation of Promotions	148
12.2.1	The Success of a Promotion	148
12.3	Shopping Cart Analysis	149
12.4	Distribution-Related Analyses	150
12.4.1	Effect of an Expansion of the Product Range	150

12.4.2	Result of a Distribution Expansion	151
12.4.3	Out-of-Stock Analysis	154
12.5	Multidimensional Analyses	155
12.5.1	The Launch Report	156
12.5.2	Portfolio Analysis Categories	157
12.5.3	Portfolio Analysis Key-Account	158
12.6	Outlook	159
13	Market Analyses Framework	161
13.1	Superordinate Perspective	161
13.2	The Beer Market in General	163
13.2.1	Development of Key Facts in the Overall Beer Market	163
13.2.2	The Importance of Individual Consumer Groups	169
13.2.3	Origin of the Purchase Value (Sales Value)	170
13.2.4	Interim Summary	171
13.3	Price-Related Issues in the Context of Market Structure Analyses	171
13.3.1	Which Price Position Does a Product Reach in the Market?	171
13.3.2	Price Comparison with the Competition	172
13.3.3	Effects of a Price Change	175
13.3.4	What Is the Best Price Difference to the Competitor?	176
13.4	Analysis of Promotional Activities	177
13.4.1	What Actions Are Observed in the Market and how Often?	178
13.4.2	The Importance of Promotions for Overall Sales	179
13.4.3	Promotion Frequency Analysis	180
13.5	Distribution-Related Aspects	181
13.5.1	Which Distribution Channels Are Particularly Important?	181
13.5.2	The Importance of the Distribution of Competitor Products	182
13.5.3	Stability of an Achieved Distribution	183
13.6	Concluding Remarks	184
14	Application Examples Communication Analysis	187
14.1	Question and First Attempts at a Solution	187
14.2	The Methodology	188
14.3	The Results	190
	References	191
15	Special Analyses Consumer Panel	193
15.1	The Measure-Tree	194
15.2	Brand Health Check	196

15.3	Cumulative Buyers: Repeat Buyers	197
15.4	Combination Analysis	199
15.5	Duplication Analysis	201
	15.5.1 General Buyer Definitions	202
15.6	Assortment Optimization	203
15.7	Gain & Loss	204
15.8	Brand Switching	209
15.9	Buyer Migration: New-Lost-Retained	209
	15.9.1 Comparison of Gain & Loss, Brand Switching, and Buyer Migration (N-L-R)	212
15.10	Launch Analysis	212
15.11	Market Share Simulation	214
16	Category Management	217
16.1	The Role of the Consumer Panel	217
16.2	Potential Indicators in Category Management	220
	16.2.1 The Determination of Buyer Potential: Buyer Potential Exploitation	220
	16.2.2 The Determination of Value Potential: Value Potential Exploitation	222
	16.2.3 The Ancillary Expenses: Missing Opportunities	224
17	Outlook	227
	Appendix	231
	Index	239