

Contents

Preface	viii
Key to Abbreviations of Cited Primary Works	x
1 Introduction: Ineliminably Reflexive Human Experience	1
2 The ‘Self-Knowledge’ of Reason: Kant’s Copernican Hypothesis	15
3 ‘A representation of my representations’: Apperception and the Leibnizian-Wolffian Background	47
4 Apperception, Self-Consciousness, and Self-Knowledge in Kant	71
5 Reflexivity, Intentionality, and Animal Perception	93
6 Disciple or Renegade? On Reinhold’s Representationalism, the Principle of Consciousness, and the Thing in Itself	115
7 Apperception and Representational Content: Fichte, Hegel, and Pippin	141
8 On the Kinship of Kant’s and Hegel’s Metaphysical Logics	165
9 Hegel, Transcendental Philosophy, and the Myth of Realism	187
Notes	201
Bibliography	229
Index	237