

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction: Music and/as Politics in the German Context 1
Maria Euchner and Siobhán Donovan

Part I. Appropriations and Misappropriations

Martin Luther in Nineteenth-Century Music, Literature, and Politics 19
Florian Gassner

The 1848 Revolutionary Lyrics of Hoffmann von Fallersleben, Herwegh, and Freiligrath in the German Folk Song Movement 35
David Robb

“Der Kampf geht weiter”: The Politics of Cover Versions in German Punk Rock 55
Peter Brandes

Son of Kraut and an Old Herero? The Politics of German Pop Musical Memory around 1990 71
Andrew Wright Hurley

Part II. The Political Gesamtkunstwerk: Opera and Film

Der Kaiser von Atlantis oder Die Tod-Verweigerung: Opera as Political Defiance 91
Maria Euchner

“Volk eilt herzu”: Beethoven’s Opera Fidelio in Dresden on October 7 and 8, 1989, and Its Ambivalent Afterlife 115
Moray McGowan

Soundtracks of the Holocaust in East and West German Cinema: Jakob der Lügner (1974) and Hitler, ein Film aus Deutschland (1977) Matt Lawson	133
--	-----

Part III. The Uses and Abuses of Music and Politics

Political Ideology, Authentic Performance, and the Romantic Metaphysics of Music: The Case of the Pianist Elly Ney Rolf J. Goebel	153
The Spirits of Utopia and of Disenchantment: Ernst Bloch, Hope, and Music in the Age of Post-Truth Wolfgang Marx	169
Notes on the Contributors	187