

CONTENTS

FOREWORD	5
Linda Tellington-Jones
PREFACE	6
PART ONE: WHAT DOES THE DOG'S BODY TELL US?	8
Section I: FOCUS ON THE HEAD	9
1. Points of the head. 2. Facial expressions (One dog – two faces). 3. Wrinkles (Monitoring muscular tension; Misunderstandings due to breed differences; Change of expression due to a muzzle or head halter; Recognising emotions). 4. Head carriage and neck (Heightened attention and focus; Changing head carriage for different motivators: Changing the perspective). 5. The ears (Ear shapes; What do ear positions tell us? Range of ear positions; Different ear carriage for different moods). 6. The eyes (Eye shapes; Reading eyebrows: Fixating; Hard eye; Iris and pupil; Effect of different light conditions; Whale eye; Heterochromia and facial markings: Eyebrow markings; Impairments of the eye). 7. The mouth (Closed mouth; Responding to different emotional situations; Open mouth; The short C-shaped mouth; Warning facial expressions). 8. The tongue (Panting in in high temperatures; Tension due to heat and anxiety; Excitement; Communication through the tongue). 9. The nose and breathing (Under the magnifying glass; Changes as the dog ages; The Jacobson organ).
Section II: FOCUS ON THE BODY	118
1. Parts of the body (Comparing toelines; Comparing angles of the joints; Examples of posture in one dog). 2. Postures (Standing; Tension while greeting). 3. Gaits (The walk; The trot; The pace; The gallop; Stalking; Posture when tired). 4. Posturing (Posturing to invite play; Play stalking; Intimidatory stalking; Postures reflecting different moods). 5. Points of balance (Conformation; Balance point shifts backwards; Balance point shifts to the front; Switching balance point; Balance point shifts to the side; Our influence; Pulling on the leash; The opposition reflex; Gaining control). 6. Lying down (Relaxed; Lying in close contact with people; Lying in close contact with other dogs; Tension; Physical limitations; Decreasing emotional tension). 7. The tail (Tail types; Tails and balance; Communicating emotions; Tail movement; Tail carriage for communication). 8. The coat (Piloerection; Excitement; Facial hairs and their meaning; Impact of stress). 9. Pain and ailments (Protective posture; Severe pain; Severe tension; Asymmetric ear carriage; Raised facial hair; Changed gait; Changes in coat and skin; Eye conditions; Neurological ailments; Ageing dogs).
PART TWO: COMMUNICATION SIGNALS	250
1. Licking (Reasons for air-licking; Air-licking on approach; To prevent an escalation of behaviour; Air-licking to self-calm; Indecision; Air-licking to calm; Non-verbal communication). 2. Blinking (Reasons for blinking; Repetitive blinking to break eye contact; As communication; In play; Human interactions; external factors). 3. Head turning (Reasons for turning the head; Subtle signs; Relaxed communication; Tense communication). 4. Turning the body away (Reasons for turning the body away; Out of respect; Polite communication). 5. Walking in an arc (Reasons for walking in an arc; Request for space; To avoid; To remain neutral; Relaxed together; To avoid conflict; For safety; To evade a person; In uncertain times). 6. Slowing down (Reasons for slower movement; When approaching other dogs; Following a boisterous approach; When noticing another dog; Following a confrontational approach; To avoid a situation). 7. Crouching (Reasons for crouching; As a sign of respect; To appease an adult dog; Insecure in a new situation; When in trouble; In fear; When another dog is too intrusive; Inherited insecurity; Human approaches). 8. Sitting (Reasons for sitting; A tendency to freeze; To appease another dog; Requesting a break; Requesting space; When insecure). 9. Lying down (Reasons for lying down; While other dogs are approaching; To settle other dogs; To show respect;

When insecure, and curious; For joy; When insecure or to appease;) 10. Lifting a paw (Reasons for lifting a paw; paw lift in puppies; To calm on approach; To request a break; As a request for space; To show respect; When too close). 11. Sniffing (Reasons for sniffing; To gather scent; To stay neutral; As communication; To request a break; A polite request; To demonstrate neutrality; To appease and calm; When approaching an unfamiliar object; To copy) 12. Urinating (Reasons for urinating; In advanced age; to release tension; To relax; To mark territory; Awkwardness/embarrassment; Combined with ground scratching; To appease). 13. Splitting (Reasons for splitting; To protect; To create a break; Acting on impulse; Subtle interference). 14. Bowing (Reasons for bowing; Inviting play; Showing interest; To ensure peaceful intentions; Size discrepancy; Indecision in wild dogs; To calm; To encourage). 15. Jumping away (Reasons for jumping away; To release tension; Neutralising an over-bold approach; Surviving a tense situation; Following a pressurised game of chase; When startled; Relieving tension). 16. Shaking off (Reasons for shaking off; Following high arousal; To relieve tension; After making contact; An excited meeting; After a collision; A controlled meeting; An indecisive approach; 17. Scratching (Reasons for scratching; When indecisive; An unfamiliar encounter; While playing). 18. Yawning (Reasons for yawning; Feeling indecisive; Due to restriction; While restrained; To relieve tension; To self-calm; A response to pain).

PART THREE: THE EMOTIONS.....391

1. Range of expressions (in one individual). 2. The Five F's (Flight; Fight; Freeze; Fooling around/Flirt). 3. Additional signs of stress (Increased use of calming signals; Biting the leash/pulling on the leash; Mounting; jumping up; Destructive behaviour; Showing the penis; Excessive barking/howling; Sweating; Hair coat and dandruff; Changes in the tongue; Dilated pupils; refusing food; Puffing out the cheeks; Drooling; Restlessness; Tail chasing; 4. Fear (Differing fear; Pictures of fear; Fear in young dogs; Fear of an unknown object; Meeting other dogs; Fear of something unfamiliar; Fear of strangers; Unknown causes). 5. Sadness (Defining sadness; a state of grief; Depression; Mood swings). 6. Annoyance, anger, rage (What is annoyance; Annoyance: Annoyance between dogs who live together; Annoyance between a Youngster and an adult; Anger: Anger due to injustice; Anger due to persistent approaches; Anger between a youngster and an older dog; Anger due to pain; Rage: Rage against rivals; Rage between a youngster and an adult; Rage against the refuse collector; Avoiding the trigger). 7. Revulsion/disgust (Revulsion towards ticks; Revulsion relating to surfaces). 8. Joy (The joy of playing with an object; the joy of playing with other dogs; The joy of playing tug-of-war; The joy of playing with a friend; The joy of playing alone; The joy of digging; The joy of water; The joy of running; Heartfelt joy; The joy of greeting; Gestures of belonging; The joy of playing with children; Joy of life). 9. Curiosity (Curiosity in puppies; Curiosity about water; Curiosity paired with caution; Head carriage while curious).

CLOSING WORDS.....466

THE AUTHORS.....467