

Table of Contents

Introduction	7
--------------------	---

Part I. From body to mind to culture

The embodied mind and the origins of human culture Mark Turner	13
--	----

The neurophysiological foundation of human cognition Alexandre Castro-Caldas	29
--	----

Cognitive Culture Studies – Where science meets the humanities Peter Hanenberg	37
--	----

Part II. Culture studies in the age of cognitive science

What is culture? – A grounding question for cognitive semiotics Per Aage Brandt	49
---	----

Towards a metaphorology of crises, or: The uses of cognitive metaphor theory for the study of culture Ansgar Nünning	71
---	----

What's in a word? Mental and linguistic representations, culture(s) and the negotiation of meaning Augusto Soares da Silva	99
---	----

Part III. Cognitive science and the study of cultural products

More on forbidden fruit blending: prying into the Portuguese mind Maria Clotilde Almeida	123
--	-----

Narrative – a key concept for cognition and culture
Ana Margarida Abrantes	143
Interfaces between the cognitive sciences and the humanities
Vera Nünning	157
Contributors	175