

Contents

Part I	Idea-Historical and Epistemological Approach	1
1	Life and the Acting Human Being	3
1.1	Reservoir of Ideas in Philosophical Anthropology	4
1.1.1	Johann G. Herder: The Great Forerunner	5
1.1.2	Max Scheler: "The Position of Man in the Cosmos"	8
1.1.3	Helmuth Plessner: "The Stages of the Organic and Man"	9
1.1.4	Arnold Gehlen: Deficiency Being and Institutional Theory	13
1.2	Günter Dux: The Epistemological Turn	20
1.3	Relation of Participation to Evolution	22
2	General Concept of Participation	31
2.1	Participation and Integration	33
2.2	Standard of Living	36
2.3	Social Policy/Senior Policy: Reconsideration?	40
2.4	Individual-Environment Relationship	45
Part II	Social-Gerontological Centering	49
3	Participation in Growing Old	51
3.1	The Malaise of a Time-Honoured Dichotomy	52
3.2	Age Specificity	55
3.2.1	Age Structure Change	55
3.2.2	What Does "Ageing" Mean?	57
3.2.3	Tasks of a Political-Practical Nature	59

3.2.4	Ageing Is Changing	61
3.2.5	Sensible Pragmatism	64
3.2.6	Malfunctions and Restrictions	65
3.2.7	Mental-Psychological Changes	67
3.3	Generations Are Interdependent	70
3.4	Family, Relationships and Generational Solidarity.	74
3.5	Images of Old Age, Past and Present	77
3.5.1	Definition of Terms.	77
3.5.2	Ancient Images of Old Age	78
3.5.3	A View of the Middle Ages	79
3.5.4	The Invention of Old Age as a Social Problem and Economic Burden.	80
3.5.5	The Euphoria Discourse of Old Age as a Counter-Im age.	82
4	A Brief Overview of Historical Forms of Participation in Old Age. . .	85
4.1	Findings from Ethnology and Cultural History	85
4.1.1	Knowledge and Seniority Principle	86
4.1.2	Material Factors and Valuation System	87
4.1.3	Where Life Is Meager.	88
4.2	Participation in the Age of Industrialisation	91
4.2.1	Rural Life	92
4.2.2	The Situation in the Craft Sector	94
Part III	Empirical Findings from Recent Research	97
5	Participation: Normative Guidelines and Empirical Findings in Austria	99
5.1	Self-Determined Life	99
5.2	Societal Areas of Participation	101
5.2.1	Economic Participation	102
5.2.2	Political Participation	108
5.2.3	Social Participation.	109
5.2.4	Cultural Participation	113
5.2.5	Contextual Hypotheses on Participation	121
5.3	Objectives	125

Part IV	Versatile Interpretations	129
6	Literary Involvement and Disengagement	131
6.1	“The Community Child” (Marie v. Ebner-Eschenbach)	134
6.2	“The Hagestolz” (Adalbert Stifter)	143
7	About Telling, About Being There and About Structures	151
7.1	Storytelling in Everyday Life	151
7.1.1	The Village Regulars’ Table	152
7.1.2	The Parish Women’s Group	154
7.2	A Little Philosophy of Old Age, Everyday Life and Interrelationships	156
7.2.1	Thinking in Contexts	160
7.2.2	Regimes and Perspectives in Life	168
7.3	Signs of Significant Change	170
8	Structural Disadvantages and Impeded Participation	173
8.1	Gender-Differentiated Ageing Trajectories in Germany	174
8.2	Poverty Risks in Europe	177
8.3	Risk of Poverty in Old Age in Austria	179
8.4	The Suddenly Narrowed Life	183
9	Epilogue	185
	References	187