

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Notes on Translation	ix
Introduction	1
1: Autobiographical Writings and Intimate Reflections	23
Biographical Note	23
Group 47	25
Attempt at an Autobiography	28
On Giuseppe Ungaretti	31
Admittedly	34
Witold Gombrowicz	35
2: Philosophy	39
Commentary	39
The Vienna Circle: Logical Positivism—Philosophy as Science	51
Ludwig Wittgenstein—A Chapter of the Most Recent History of Philosophy	68
Logic as Mysticism	76
The Sayable and the Unsayable	90
3: Modern Literature	111
Commentary	111
Franz Kafka: Amerika	118
Into the Millennium	123
The Man Without Qualities	127
The World of Marcel Proust: Views of a Pandemonium	146
Playing Watten and Other Writings (On Thomas Bernhard)
An Attempt	164
Bertolt Brecht: Preface to an Anthology of His Poetry	166
The Bell Jar / The Quintessential Horror (On Sylvia Plath)	172

4:	Visual Rhetoric and Poetics	175
	Commentary	175
	What I Saw and Heard in Rome	183
	The Love of God and Affliction: The Path of Simone Weil	188
	On the Trail of Language	210
	To What End Poems?	211
	On the Genesis of the Title “In Apulia”	213
	The Poem Addressing the Reader	215
5:	Music	217
	Commentary	217
	Wondrous Music	223
	Music and Poetry	233
	Genesis of a Libretto	236
	Otello	240
	Hommage à Maria Callas	242
	Notes on the Libretto	244
6:	The Frankfurt Lectures and Other Speeches	247
	Commentary	247
	Truth is Within Human Reach (Acceptance Speech for the Radio Play Prize of the German Union of the War Blind)	259
	The First Frankfurt Lecture: Problems of Contemporary Literature I. Questions and Pseudo-Questions	262
	The Second Frankfurt Lecture: On Poems	275
	The Third Frankfurt Lecture: Concerning the I	289
	The Fourth Frankfurt Lecture: Names	306
	The Fifth Frankfurt Lecture: Literature as Utopia	321
	On Receiving the Anton Wildgans Prize	334
	Bibliography	337
	Index	349