

1	Introduction	1
	References	10
2	First Approach: Normative Versus Utility-Oriented Approaches to Emotions	13
2.1	Normative Emotion Theory: Contemporary Writings	20
2.2	Benefit-Oriented Emotion Theory: Contemporary Writings	22
	References	27
3	The Social Dimension of Emotions: The Homo Emotionalis	31
3.1	Binary Feelings	32
3.2	Basic Feelings	39
3.2.1	Anxiety	44
3.2.2	Joy	45
3.2.3	Grief	47
3.2.4	Anger	48
3.2.5	Relaxation, Serenity and Interest as the Fifth Basic Emotion	49
3.3	Reflexive Feelings	53
3.4	Merge: The Concept of the Homo Emotionalis	64
	References	67
4	Emotions and Political Action	71
4.1	Binary Emotionality: We-politics and Other-politics	73
4.2	Basal Emotionality: Coloured Politics	82
4.2.1	The Politics of Fear	83

4.2.2	Politics of Joy	94
4.2.3	Politics of Mourning.	102
4.2.4	Politics of Anger.	108
4.2.5	Merge	120
4.3	Reflexive Emotionality: Political Emotion Management	122
	References	132
5	Summary: Toward a Dynamic Conceptualization of Political Emotions	141
	References	149