

Contents

Chapter 1

Doing Things with Tears — 1

- 1.1 Approaches to Mesopotamian Religion and Ritual — 8
 - 1.1.1 The Phenomenological Approach to Mesopotamian Religion — 9
 - 1.1.2 The Descriptive Approach to Mesopotamian Religion — 13
 - 1.1.3 The Literary Approach to Mesopotamian Religion — 20
- 1.2 Lamenting in Ancient Mesopotamia — 31
- 1.3 Structure and Goals of the Book — 38

Chapter 2

Lamenting in the Early Second Millennium — 41

- 2.1 The Classification of Old Babylonian Sumerian Laments — 44
- 2.2 The Content and Main Features of Sumerian Laments — 51
 - 2.2.1 Laments to Inana — 59
 - 2.2.2 Laments to Ninisina-Gula — 65
 - 2.2.3 Laments to other Goddesses — 75
 - 2.2.4 Laments to Enlil — 78
 - 2.2.5 Laments to other Male Deities — 84
- 2.3 The Geographic Distribution of Sumerian Laments and Local Traditions — 90

Chapter 3

Writing and the Performance of Sumerian Laments — 106

- 3.1 Balags and Ershemmas in Performance — 115
- 3.2 Writing and Oral Performance — 123
- 3.3 The Readability of Sumerian Laments — 134
- 3.4 Variability in the Content of Sumerian Laments — 137
- 3.5 Other Features of Oral Performance in Sumerian Laments — 169
- 3.6 Conclusion: Writing and the Performance of Sumerian Laments — 172

Chapter 4

Emotion and Sumerian Laments — 174

- 4.1 The Structure of Sumerian Laments — 177
- 4.2 The Themes of Sumerian Laments — 195
- 4.3 Affect and the Performance of Sumerian Laments — 214

Chapter 5

Sound and Meaning in Sumerian Laments — 225

- 5.1 The Corpus of Phonetically Written Sources — 227
 - 5.1.1 The Geographic Distribution of Phonetically Written Sources — 229
 - 5.1.2 Phonetic Sources for the Laments and Compositions of Other Types — 242
- 5.2 Phonetic Writings and the Performance of Sumerian Laments — 245
 - 5.2.1 Phonetic Writings and Unskilled Scribes — 246
 - 5.2.2 Phonetic Writings as an Alternative Regional Orthography — 259
 - 5.2.3 Phonetic Writings and Scribal Training — 273
 - 5.2.4 Phonetic Writings as Pronunciation Aids — 278
- 5.3 The Interface of Sound and Meaning in Sumerian Laments — 287

Chapter 6

Conclusion – the Cultural Function of Mesopotamian Lamenting — 295

Appendix 1 Edition of uru₂-am₃-ma-i-ra-bi (Kirugus 1–5) — 307

Appendix 2 Catalogue and List of Old Babylonian Sources for Sumerian Laments by Type — 379

Appendix 3 Lists of Phonetic Writings in Phonetically Written Lament Sources — 521

Bibliography — 651

Index — 663