

Contents

Driss Ablali/Guy Achard-Bayle

Introduction

Language/speech vs. text/discourse: A “family resemblance”? — 1

Part 1: Text-discourse links

Jean-Michel Adam

Chapter 1

Micro-level, meso-level and macro-level of textual structuring and complexity — 21

Michel Charolles

Chapter 2

“Framing adverbials” as markers of discourse organization — 57

Guy Achard-Bayle

Chapter 3

Text, discourse, cognition — 77

Catherine Kerbrat-Orecchioni

Chapter 4

From discourse analysis to analysis of discourses — 95

Alain Rabatel

Chapter 5

Enunciator position, positioning and posture — 107

Part 2: Text epistemologies

François Rastier

Chapter 6

Dissipative units — 133

Driss Ablali

Chapter 7

Corpus semantics, the unfinished project of Greimas’ Structural semantics — 153

Bernard Combettes

Chapter 8

Suggestions for a diachronic text linguistics — 169

Lita Lundquist

Chapter 9

40 years of text linguistics and its didactic application in teaching French as a foreign language — 185

Part 3: Epistemologies of discourse – and beyond

Patrick Charaudeau

Chapter 10

A socio-communicational model of discourse (between communication situation and individuation strategies) — 207

Dominique Maingueneau

Chapter 11

Discourse, discourse analysis, and discourse genres — 231

Ruth Amossy

Chapter 12

Integrating argumentation in discourse analysis? Problems and challenges — 245

André Petitjean

Chapter 13

Linguistics and literature: Style in question — 269

Index nominum — 279

Index rerum — 283