

Table of Contents

Mélissa Fox-Muraton

Introduction: Kierkegaard's Existential Ethics for the 21st Century — 1

Part I: Ethics And Religion

Shai Frogel

1 Either Religion or Ethics — 17

Liam Hughes

2 Reflections on Kierkegaard's Internalist Perspective and Its Relation to Social Change — 31

Charles Blattberg

3 Kierkegaard's Deep Diversity
The One and the Many — 51

Michael Glass

4 Kierkegaard and Interreligious Understanding — 69

Viktoras Bachmetjevas

5 Clemency over Forgiveness
Kierkegaard's Assessor Wilhelm as a Response to Vladimir
Jankélévitch — 87

Part II: Media And Community

Christopher Black

6 Choosing for Yourself in the Age of the Social Media Echo-Chamber
Some Kierkegaardian Reflections on Online Algorithms — 107

Patrick Stokes

7 Kierkegaard's Critique of the Internet — 125

Andrzej Słowikowski

- 8 Can a Refugee be One's Neighbor in an Ethical Sense?
An Attempt to Transpose the Transcendent Category of Love for One's Neighbor from Kierkegaard's Works of Love into Immanent Ethical Practice with Reference to the Contemporary Migration Crisis — 147

Tomer Raudanski

- 9 Equality, Mortality and Community in "At a Graveside"
Reading Kierkegaard alongside Nancy and Derrida — 169

Part III: Challenges To Identity

René Rosfort

- 10 The Strength of a Fragile Mind
Kierkegaard and Psychiatric Ethics — 195

Mélissa Fox-Muraton

- 11 Existential Ethics and Liberal Eugenics
Kierkegaard and Habermas — 215

Jakub Marek

- 12 Creatures of Habit
On Second Nature, Habitual Behavior, and Ethical Life in Kierkegaard — 235

Oliver Norman

- 13 Despair and Gender Identity
Reading Kierkegaard in a Queer Light — 253

Abbreviations — 273

Index — 275