

Contents

Summary of main results.....	VII
A. Introduction.....	1
I. German businesses in Central and Eastern Europe	3
II. Vocational education and training in Central and Eastern Europe.....	5
1. Students on vocational programmes	6
2. Basic education: 15-year-olds.....	7
3. Public image of vocational education and training	8
4. Practical experience while studying	12
5. Labour market and labour force potential	13
B. Analysis by country	15
I. Bulgaria.....	15
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	16
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	19
3. Funding and quality assurance	20
4. Reform activities and dual approaches.....	21
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	23
II. Poland	24
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	24
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	29
3. Funding and quality assurance	30
4. Reform activities and dual approaches	32
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	34
III. Romania	36
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	37
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	42
3. Funding and quality assurance	44

4. Reform activities and dual approaches.....	45
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	46
IV. Slovakia.....	49
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	49
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	52
3. Funding and quality assurance	53
4. Reform activities and dual approaches.....	54
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	56
V. Czech Republic.....	57
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	58
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	61
3. Funding and quality assurance	62
4. Reform activities and dual approaches.....	63
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	63
VI. Hungary	64
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	65
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	70
3. Funding and quality assurance	73
4. Reform activities and dual approaches.....	74
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	76
VII. Serbia.....	78
1. Structure and status of initial and continuing vocational education and training.....	78
2. Players and elements of regional and central governance	81
3. Funding and quality assurance	82
4. Reform activities and dual provision.....	82
5. EU projects and cooperation at country level.....	84

C. Company survey 87

 I. Involvement in vocational education and training.....87

 II. Organisation of vocational education and training89

 1. Vocational education and training90

 2. Continuing vocational education and training95

D. Case studies 97

 I. Poland: Dual VET at Gühring97

 II. Czech Republic: VET at Mubea103

 III. Hungary: Dual VET at Festo108

 IV. Romania: Școala Profesională Germană Kronstadt111

E. Action recommendations117

 I. European vocational education and training area118

 II. Action recommendations121

 1. VET partnerships121

 2. Business and social partners.....124

 3. Cooperation between workplaces and vocational schools.....126

 4. Curriculum reform and development.....128

 5. Regional stakeholder networks134

 6. Learning mobility.....135

 7. Job shadowing and training.....139

 8. Skills competitions143

 9. Duality plus145

F. Appendix 149

Index of tables 153

List of figures..... 155

Bibliography 157

Acknowledgement..... 181