

Contents

Claudia Rapp
Introduction . . . . .	13
Johannes Preiser-Kapeller
Online Research Tools . . . . .	27
Ekaterini Mitsiou
Timeline . . . . .	31
Abbreviations . . . . .	35

1 Why Moving?

1.1.0 Warfare . . . . .	39
1.1.1 Niketas Choniates and his family flee from Constantinople after the Crusader conquest of 1204 . . . .	42
1.1.2 Latins leaving Constantinople in 1261 . . . . .	47
1.1.3 Turks advance in Asia Minor, Byzantines take to flight . .	51
1.2.0 Resettlement . . . . .	55
1.2.1 The resettlement of the Sklaviniai . . . . .	59
1.2.2 Populating Crete with Armenians, Rhomaioi, and others .	66
1.2.3 Relocation of villages and peasants . . . . .	70
1.3.0 Prisoners of war . . . . .	75
1.3.1 John Kaminiates and his family are taken captive in Thessaloniki . . . . .	80
1.3.2 A Scythian woman and her Byzantine slaves . . . . .	83

1.3.3	The theologian Gregory Palamas speaks about his captivity among the Turks . . . . .	85
1.4.0	Rebellion and treachery . . . . .	91
1.4.1	The international connections of the rebellion of a resettled Slav: Thomas the Slav . . . . .	95
1.4.2	An aristocratic rebel in service of the emir: Bardas Skleros . . . . .	98
1.4.3	The Battle of Manzikert and the betrayal of the Doukas family . . . . .	102
1.5.0	Banishment and defection . . . . .	105
1.5.1	The travails of a monk . . . . .	110
1.5.2	The banishment of an empress . . . . .	113
1.5.3	Defecting to the infidels . . . . .	115
1.6.0	Religion . . . . .	119
1.6.1	The flight of the monks during Iconoclasm . . . . .	123
1.6.2	The dispersal of a community during Iconoclasm . . . . .	125
1.6.3	Rebellion and defection in Asia Minor: the Paulicians . . . . .	127
1.6.4	Resettling heretics to the Balkans and using them as a border guard . . . . .	130
1.6.5	Heretics send missionaries abroad . . . . .	133
1.6.6	Classification of heretics: Bogomils and Phoundagiagites . . . . .	134
1.6.7	The heresiarch meets the emperor . . . . .	136
1.7.0	Natural disasters and the environment . . . . .	139
1.7.1	The last outbreak of the Justinianic plague and the flight and resettlement of people from and to Constantinople, 747/748 . . . . .	144
1.7.2	The Black Death arrives in Byzantium from the Black Sea and spreads across the Mediterranean, 1347 . . . . .	146
1.7.3	A series of natural disasters leads to larger scale migration movements and counter-measures of the government, 1028–1040 . . . . .	148
1.7.4	An earthquake forces the population of Kallipolis and other cities to flee and allows for the establishment of a firm Ottoman foothold in Thrace, 1354 . . . . .	151

1.8.0	Pastoralism: nomadic and transhumant . . . . .	155
1.8.1	The origin and pastoralism of the Vlachs . . . . .	158
1.8.2	Vlach shepherds enter Mount Athos together with their families and livestock . . . . .	161
1.8.3	A conflict between Vlach and Cuman transhumant pastoralists . . . . .	163
1.8.4	Transhumant shepherds of Albanian origin and their kin . . . . .	165
1.8.5	Turkic nomads try to prevent the reconstruction of Dorylaion by Emperor Manuel I Komnenos . . . . .	167
1.9.0	Education and advancement . . . . .	171
1.9.1	A provincial receives his education in Constantinople . . . . .	176
1.9.2	Children from Lesbos go to Constantinople . . . . .	178
1.9.3	The studies of Gregory Chioniades in Persia . . . . .	181
1.10.0	Diplomacy and embassies . . . . .	185
1.10.1	The Byzantine mission to the Slavs . . . . .	191
1.10.2	Ceremonial reception of foreign delegations at the Byzantine court . . . . .	195
1.10.3	Maria Palaiologina leaves Constantinople and travels to the Mongols, first as a bride-to-be (1265) and then as an ambassador (1307) . . . . .	198
1.11.0	Health, healing, and pilgrimage . . . . .	205
1.11.1	Travelling to the capital in order to receive better medical treatment . . . . .	207
1.11.2	Visiting Saint Artemios and his healing shrine . . . . .	209
1.11.3	The miraculous power of the shrine of the Mother of God of the life-giving spring at Pege . . . . .	212
1.11.4	A courtier leaves the capital and visits the Holy Land . . . . .	215
1.12.0	Family matters . . . . .	221
1.12.1	A groom leaves his bride . . . . .	222
1.12.2	A wife lives in another town without the permission of her husband . . . . .	223
1.12.3	An orphan leaves home because of problems with his stepfather . . . . .	225

2 Who moved?

2.1.0	Elites . . . . .	229
2.1.1	Men of the nobility, eager for an imperial reward, hasten to Constantinople . . . . .	230
2.1.2	The departure of a Byzantine princess after peace with Bulgaria is sealed through a marriage alliance . . . . .	232
2.1.3	A status-conscious courtier and intellectual receives the gift of a horse . . . . .	234
2.1.4	Youthful escapades of a future emperor . . . . .	236
2.2.0	Labour . . . . .	239
2.2.1	Forced relocation of workers to build infrastructure . . . . .	241
2.2.2	Gender and labour on Mount Athos . . . . .	244
2.2.3	The flight and forced relocation of rural labourers ( paroikoi ) . . . . .	248
2.3.0	Monks and clerics . . . . .	253
2.3.1	The abbot of the monastery of Bathys Ryax travels to Constantinople . . . . .	258
2.3.2	Constantinopolitan clerics in the provinces . . . . .	260
2.3.3	Saint Christodoulos leaves his homeland Bithynia and, after a long journey, arrives on Patmos . . . . .	263
2.4.0	Soldiers, warriors, and mercenaries . . . . .	269
2.4.1	The Soldier's Law regulating the mobility of soldiers, 7 th –9 th century . . . . .	273
2.4.2	The mobilisation of the troops for an imperial campaign in Asia Minor, 9 th –10 th century . . . . .	276
2.4.3	A list of burdens on taxpayers for the supply of the army in quarters and on the move, 1077/1079 . . . . .	278
2.4.4	The Catalan Company arrives in Byzantium, September 1303 . . . . .	282
2.4.5	The Catalans move to Kyzikos, late September 1303 . . . . .	284
2.4.6	The Catalan successes in Asia Minor: Philadelphia . . . . .	285
2.4.7	The Catalans move to Europe, late October 1304 . . . . .	287
2.4.8	The Catalans devastate the western provinces, late October 1304 . . . . .	289
2.4.9	A naval attack of the Catalans in areas around Constantinople, May 1305 . . . . .	290

2.4.10 The Catalans move further to the West after internal conflicts . . . . .	292
2.5.0 Traders, merchants, and artisans . . . . .	295
2.5.1 A business arrangement between a nobleman and merchants in a time of siege . . . . .	300
2.5.2 The account book of a Byzantine merchant . . . . .	303
2.5.3 Mobility due to a grain monopoly . . . . .	305
2.5.4 Exporting Byzantine know-how in the field of technology . . . . .	307
2.6.0 Entertainers, sex workers and entrepreneurs . . . . .	311
2.6.1 Prostitution in an area of commercial activities . . . . .	313
2.6.2 An itinerant dwarf entertains the imperial court . . . . .	315
2.6.3 Matchmakers visit the homes of their customers . . . . .	317

3 Scales, configurations and perspectives

3.1.0 Ego-documents of ambassadors and messengers . . . . .	321
3.1.1 Travelling to a Balkan neighbour during winter . . . . .	325
3.1.2 An intellectual serving his fatherland in Rome . . . . .	332
3.1.3 A Roman emperor negotiates foreign aid for his doomed country . . . . .	335
3.2.0 Kinship groups . . . . .	339
3.2.1 Theoktiste visits her sister on Lesbos where both of them, along with other locals, are captured by Arab raiders . . . . .	340
3.2.2 Eustathios Boilas, along with his family, abandons his homeland to settle in the region of Edessa . . . . .	344
3.2.3 A son-in-law moves in with his wife's family after signing a legally binding agreement with her father . . . . .	347
3.3.0 Larger groups and confederations: the Varangians in Byzantium . . . . .	351
3.3.1 How the Varangians ( Rus ) travelled from Rosia to Constantinople . . . . .	356
3.3.2 The career of the Norwegian prince Harald Hardrada in the service of the Varangian guard, 1034–1042 . . . . .	359
3.3.3 The assault of a Varangian soldier on a Byzantine woman in winter quarters in western Asia Minor . . . . .	361

3.4.0	Diasporas and networks: the examples of Armenians and Jews . .	365
3.4.1	Trans-frontier mobility and the establishment of the mikra Armenika themata – the career of Melias . . . . .	370
3.4.2	Trans-frontier mobility and the establishment of the mikra Armenika themata – the law of emperor Nikephoros II Phokas against Armenian unsteadiness . . .	373
3.4.3	A female Byzantine saint of Armenian background: Mary the Younger of Bizye . . . . .	375
3.4.4	Exclusion and integration: Armenians and other minorities in the late Byzantine world . . . . .	378
3.4.5	Emperor Basil I attempts to convert the Jews in the Byzantine Empire to Christianity . . . . .	380
3.4.6	Nikon ho Metanoeite has the Jews expelled from Lakedaimon (Sparta) on the Peloponnese on the occasion of an epidemic, ca. 970 . . . . .	383
3.4.7	George Gemistos Plethon moves to Ottoman-ruled Adrianople to study with the Jewish scholar Elissaïos, ca. 1380 . . . . .	384

4 Modalities of movement

4.1.0	Leaving . . . . .	391
4.1.1	A poet's sentiment on leaving from and returning to his house . . . . .	392
4.1.2	Moving into the monastic world: emotions of father and son . . . . .	395
4.1.3	Joy and grief of dynastic marriages: the emperor's niece marries the ruler of Austria . . . . .	398
4.2.0	En route . . . . .	403
4.2.1	An organized trek of the army, refugees and prisoners of war . . . . .	406
4.2.2	Two women travel to seek legal judgment . . . . .	409
4.2.3	A wealthy woman travels in style to Constantinople . . . .	411
4.2.4	A monastic leader's long road to exile . . . . .	413
4.3.0	Arriving . . . . .	417
4.3.1	A legendary account of Thracian settlement in the thema Thrakesion . . . . .	418

4.3.2 The entry of emperor Michael VIII Palaiologos in Constantinople after 57 years of Latin rule, 1261 . . . . . 420

4.3.3 Instructions for the reception of a foreign bride in Constantinople . . . . . 423

4.4.0 Settling . . . . . 427

4.4.1 Migration of the Slavs to the Balkans and imperial efforts at assimilation . . . . . 428

4.4.2 Organized settlement of Byzantine captives by the Seljuk Sultan of Ikonion . . . . . 431

4.4.3 Guy de Lusignan attracts Franks and Syrians to Cyprus and grants them privileges . . . . . 434

5 The Imaginary

5.1.0 Movement and mobility in the Byzantine imaginary . . . . . 439

5.1.1 Kingly ascension: The journey of Alexander the Great into Heaven . . . . . 442

5.1.2 Saintly ascension: the journey of Saint Anastasia to Heaven . . . . . 444

5.1.3 Going to Hades: Timarion’s crossing the border of life and death . . . . . 446

5.1.4 Dreaming about means of locomotion . . . . . 448

5.1.5 Sinister mobility: harsh reality of the imagined . . . . . 450

Christodoulos Papavarnavas

List of source texts by date of composition . . . . . 455

Grigori Simeonov

List of names . . . . . 459

Johannes Preiser-Kapeller

List of places . . . . . 475

Ekaterini Mitsiou

List of terms . . . . . 487

Index of Illustrations . . . . . 491

---

Maps . . . . .	493
Acknowledgement of work done on sourcebook . . . . .	497
Author biographies . . . . .	499