

Contents

1	Information, Organization, and Leadership: On the Way to the Boundaryless Enterprise . . . . .	1
1.1	Changes in Competitive Conditions and Corporate Structures . . .	1
1.1.1	Profound Change in Competitive Conditions . . . . .	2
1.1.2	Profound Changes in Society and the World of Work . . . . .	3
1.1.3	Potentials of Digital Technologies . . . . .	3
1.2	New Organizational Concepts: Overcoming Boundaries . . . . .	4
1.2.1	Stronger Market Orientation to Be Able to Cope with the Changed Competitive Conditions Outlined . . . . .	6
1.2.2	Technical and Nontechnical Forms of Networking . . . . .	7
1.2.3	New Forms of Employee Management to Develop and Exploit Employee Potentials . . . . .	7
1.3	Structure and Characteristics of This Book . . . . .	7
	References . . . . .	10
2	Market Dynamics and Competition: The Crucial Role of Information . . . . .	11
2.1	Why Enterprises and Markets? . . . . .	11
2.2	Theories of Organization . . . . .	14
2.2.1	Institutions and Treaties . . . . .	15
2.2.2	Property Rights Theory . . . . .	17
2.2.3	Transaction Cost Theory . . . . .	20
2.2.4	Principal-Agent Theory . . . . .	25
2.3	Information and Network Economy . . . . .	28
2.3.1	Production and Distribution of Information . . . . .	29
2.3.2	Use of Information . . . . .	31
2.4	Implications for Companies and Markets . . . . .	32
	References . . . . .	34

- 3 Basic Models of Human Information and Communication Behavior 37
  - 3.1 The Importance of Information and Communication in Organizations . . . . . 37
    - 3.1.1 Information Needs and Information Supply . . . . . 40
    - 3.1.2 First-Time Confirmation Model . . . . . 40
    - 3.1.3 Information Behavior According to O'Reilly . . . . . 41
  - 3.2 Selected Models of Communication Behavior . . . . . 42
    - 3.2.1 Three-Level Model of Semiotics . . . . . 43
    - 3.2.2 Typical Communication Models . . . . . 45
  - 3.3 Task, Medium, and Communication . . . . . 49
    - 3.3.1 Perspectives on Media Choice: Results of Media Choice Research. . . . . 50
    - 3.3.2 Digital Leadership: The Impact of New Media on Corporate and Employee Management . . . . . 54
  - 3.4 Models of Knowledge . . . . . 56
    - 3.4.1 The Importance of Knowledge . . . . . 56
    - 3.4.2 Knowledge Between Coordination and Motivation. . . . . 59
  - 3.5 Information, Communication, and Trust . . . . . 60
    - 3.5.1 The Importance of Trust in Intra- and Inter-Organizational Contexts . . . . . 60
    - 3.5.2 Information Behavior and Trust. . . . . 61
    - 3.5.3 Trust Building and Communication. . . . . 64
  - 3.6 Conclusions for Management . . . . . 65
  - References. . . . . 66

- 4 Technology in the Boundaryless Enterprise: Digitalization as Driver for the Dissolution of Boundaries? . . . . . 71
  - 4.1 Technologies as Enablers. . . . . 71
  - 4.2 Overarching Trends in Digitization . . . . . 72
  - 4.3 Big Data: Relevance of the Data . . . . . 73
  - 4.4 Networked Production: Industry 4.0 . . . . . 76
  - 4.5 Cloud Computing: Problem-Oriented Access to Services. . . . . 78
  - 4.6 Blockchain Technology: Secure Transactions . . . . . 80
  - 4.7 Artificial Intelligence: New Interactions Between Man and Machine . . . . . 81
  - 4.8 Conclusions for Management and Leadership. . . . . 83
  - References. . . . . 84

- 5 Dissolution of Hierarchies: Modularization . . . . . 87
  - 5.1 Basic Idea and Characteristics of Modular Forms of Organization. 87
  - 5.2 Forms of Implementation of Modularization. . . . . 91
    - 5.2.1 The Spectrum of Modularization Concepts . . . . . 91
    - 5.2.2 Modularization Concepts at the Organizational Level. . . . . 92
    - 5.2.3 Modularization Concepts at the Level of Process Chains . . 94
    - 5.2.4 Modularization Concepts at the Level of Work Organization. . . . . 95

- 5.3 Modularization and Interactive Value Creation . . . . . 97
  - 5.3.1 Involving the Customer in the Value Creation Process . . . 97
  - 5.3.2 Product Individualization (Mass Customization) and Open Innovation. . . . . 98
- 5.4 Conclusions for Management and Leadership. . . . . 100
- References. . . . . 101
- 6 Dissolution of the Company: Networks . . . . . 105
  - 6.1 Basic Idea and Explanatory Approaches of Hybrid Organizational Structures. . . . . 105
  - 6.2 Forms of Realization of Hybrid Organizations . . . . . 106
  - 6.3 Forms of Cooperation . . . . . 108
    - 6.3.1 Systematization of Cooperations . . . . . 109
    - 6.3.2 Organization of Cooperations . . . . . 109
  - 6.4 Forms of Control . . . . . 110
  - 6.5 Business Networks and Platforms . . . . . 111
  - 6.6 Conclusions for Management . . . . . 114
  - References. . . . . 115
- 7 Overcoming Location Boundaries: Virtual Enterprise . . . . . 119
  - 7.1 Basic Idea and Characteristics of Virtual Forms of Organization . . 119
  - 7.2 Forms of Implementation of Virtualization . . . . . 124
    - 7.2.1 Overcoming Location Boundaries at the Market and Business Environment Level. . . . . 124
    - 7.2.2 Overcoming Location Boundaries at the Level of Value Creation and Company Success. . . . . 125
    - 7.2.3 Overcoming Location Boundaries at the Level of People and Work . . . . . 126
  - 7.3 Virtualization and Organization. . . . . 128
    - 7.3.1 “Virtual Size” Despite “Real Smallness”. . . . . 129
    - 7.3.2 Centralization Despite Decentralization . . . . . 130
    - 7.3.3 Generalization Despite Specialization. . . . . 130
    - 7.3.4 Virtual Teams . . . . . 130
    - 7.3.5 Limits of Virtual Organizations . . . . . 131
  - 7.4 Conclusions for Management and Leadership. . . . . 132
  - References. . . . . 134
- 8 The Human Being in the Boundaryless Enterprise: New Demands on Employees and Managers . . . . . 137
  - 8.1 The Human Being in the Boundaryless Organization: “Working World 4.0” . . . . . 137
    - 8.1.1 The Importance of People in Changing Competitive Conditions . . . . . 138
    - 8.1.2 New Models of Work Structuring in the Boundaryless Organization. . . . . 139

- 8.2 The New Role of Customers, Employees, and Managers in the Boundaryless Organization ..... 142
  - 8.2.1 The New Role of the Customer ..... 142
  - 8.2.2 The New Role of the Employee..... 143
  - 8.2.3 The New Role of the Manager..... 145
- 8.3 Conclusions for Management and Leadership..... 147
- References..... 149