

Helga Gemegah

The First Americans' New World Roots – A Forgotten Question Reconsidered

PETER LANG

Internationaler Verlag der Wissenschaften

Table of contents

Preface	15
1 Introduction	17
2 The development of ideas about the origin of the first Americans	19
2.1 Reasons for the development of ideas of origin	19
2.2 Spanish colonial ambitions in Asia	23
2.2.1 Ruy Gonzales de Clavijo in Central Asia (1403-1406)	23
2.2.2 Christopher Columbus in search of East Asia (1492)	24
2.2.3 Spanish claims on Asia in the Bula Intercaetera (1493)	24
2.2.4 Bula Dudum siquidem of September 26 th , 1493	27
2.2.5 Spanish interests in the Moluccas, the Philippines and China	30
2.2.6 Gonzalez de Mendoza's description of the Chinese military (1540-1617)	32
2.3 Religious influence on early science in the 16 th century	33
2.3.1 America: An uninhabited continent	34
2.3.2 The role of Noah's Ark for the first ideas of origin	35
2.4 Erroneous cartographic descriptions of Asia and America	35
2.4.1 Contradictions in Bartolomé de las Casas' geographical concepts	36
2.4.2 Bartolomeo Colón: The Moluccas in the Caribbean (1520)	37
2.4.3 Caspar Vopel: America and Asia as one landmass (1542)	37
2.4.4 Van den Putte: Mongolia in Mexico (1570)	39
2.4.5 The reception of fictitious cartographic descriptions of China in European sources since the 16 th century	40
2.5 Realistic maps	42
2.5.1 Martin Waldseemüller's World Map	42
2.5.2 Matteo Ricci's world map	43
2.6 Political barriers against new knowledge	44
2.7 Spanish authors as inventors of land bridge migrations	45
2.7.1 The Spanish Jesuit José de Acosta (ca. 1540-1600)	45
2.7.1.1 China as a place of origin	47
2.7.1.2 Political cartography	50
2.7.1.3 Acosta's statements about Noah's Ark	51
2.7.1.4 Acosta's concepts about the peopling of the New World	51

2.7.2	The role of Acosta's ideas in obstructing science.....	61
2.7.3	Juan Gonzalez de Mendoza	61
2.7.3.1	India and Israel as places of origin	62
2.7.3.2	Political cartography	62
2.7.3.3	Gonzalez de Mendoza and Noah's Ark	63
2.8	Conjectures about a settlement by maritime contacts.....	64
3	The reception of ideas of origin of the first Americans	67
3.1	Thomas Jefferson about the peopling of the Americas	67
3.2	Alexander von Humboldt's reception of Acosta's Historia	71
3.2.1	Alexander von Humboldt about 16 th century cartographical errors	74
3.2.2	Alexander von Humboldt's doubts about Spanish reports on America	76
3.2.3	Wilhelm von Humboldt about American and Asian languages	76
3.3	Franz Boas' North Pacific expedition	78
3.4	Aleš Hrdlička's ideas about the peopling of the Americas.....	79
3.4.1	Hrdlička on Acosta's tracks.....	79
3.4.2	Aleš Hrdlička and the palaeontologist Florentino Ameghino.....	84
3.4.3	Aleš Hrdlička and the ethnologist Eduard Seler	87
3.4.4	William H. Holmes and the peopling of the Americas.....	93
3.4.5	William H. Holmes concepts about the number of Native Americans and their origins	95
3.4.6	A. Hrdlička, B. Willis, W. H. Holmes and C.D. Walcott.....	107
3.4.7	Aleš Hrdlička and Guiseppe Sergi	109
3.4.8	Hrdlička at the 17 th International Congress of Americanists 1910	115
3.5	Hrdlička's ideas about the peopling of Asia	124
3.5.1	American-Chinese science transfer	124
3.5.2	The Peking Union Medical College and Davidson Black.....	125
3.5.3	Plans for a Chinese Museum of Natural History.....	128
3.5.4	Hrdlička and Sinanthropus	129
3.5.5	Hrdlička's concepts on the peopling of Asia and Europe.....	134
3.5.6	Hrdlička considering Siberia as place of origin of the first Americans.....	136
3.6	The wide distribution and multiplication of origin conjectures.....	137
3.7	Religious influence on science in the 20 th and 21 st centuries	139
3.8	The emerging knowledge of continental drift	139

4 The impact of fictitious ideas about the origin of the first Americans	141
4.1 Ideas of origin in science	142
4.1.1 Comparisons between Asian and American objects of art or of material culture	144
4.1.2 Thor Heyerdahl's maritime experiments.....	145
4.1.3 Comparisons of genetic and linguistic characteristics of the peoples of the Old World and the New	147
4.1.3.1 The conjecture about Siberia as place of origin of the first Americans	153
4.1.4 Ideas of origin in zoology	154
4.1.5 America: A forgotten part in humankind's history	156
4.2 Ideas of origin in the literature	158
4.2.1 James Fenimore Cooper's comments on the origins of the first Americans	159
4.2.2 The novelist Karl May on the peopling of the Americas.....	162
4.2.3 C.W. Ceram's reception of ideas of origin.....	169
5 Concluding remarks on ideas of origin.....	179
5.1 The New World roots of the first peoples of America.....	179
6 Summary and outlook.....	183
7 Addendum.....	191
7.1 Acosta's Historia Chapters 1-25	191
7.2 Chronology of the Life of Aleš Hrdlička	195
8 References.....	203