

Yuval Dror (Ed.)

'National Education' through Mutually Supportive Devices:

A case study of Zionist education

PETER LANG

Table of Contents

A. Introduction and theoretical and historical Background

A.1. Introduction .....	13
A.2. Theoretical Background: Education and Nationality .....	31
A.3. The historical-educational Background of the Zionist Educational System – from the 1880s to the beginning of the 21 st century .....	41

B. The mutually supportive educational devices for raising national education

B.1. ‘Community education’ in students’ societies .....	57
B.2. Commemoration of historical events and festivals .....	67
B.3. The use of visuals .....	83
B.4. Education for work as preparation for life as a sovereign nation .....	97
B.5. Study trips and pre-military training as components of school studies .....	107
B.6. Various nonformal activities .....	121
B.7. ‘By-passing (nonformal) educational systems’, also for young adults .....	133
B.8. ‘Quasi-boarding schools’ (‘Limited Totality’ in day schools) .....	145

C. Initiation and dissemination of innovations in the sphere of national education

C.1. Autonomy for teachers/schools as a precondition for the introduction of innovations .....	159
C.2. Eclectic innovative combinations by leading educators ...	175
C.3. Educators’ movements for disseminating innovations ....	191

D. Institutional, regional and national partnerships in relation to national education

D.1. Partnerships of institutions of higher education with schools in the field . . . . .	211
D.2. Regionalization of education . . . . .	225
D.3. Systemization of education on the national level . . . . .	239

E. Comprehensive educational principles of 'national education'

E.1. Finding the common denominator (by 'core curriculum') . . . . .	253
E.2. 'Educational-social balance' and 'Balanced resolution of dilemmas' . . . . .	265
E.3. Practice into theory . . . . .	283
E.4. Revitalized innovative educational paradigms . . . . .	295

F. Summary

Summary: the book's contribution to educational planning and research of nationality . . . . .	311
---	-----

References . . . . .	325
-----------------------------	-----

Index

Name Index . . . . .	337
Subject Index . . . . .	341