

David E. Ohreen

The Scope and Limits of Folk Psychology

A Socio-Linguistic Approach

Peter Lang

Contents

Acknowledgments	9
1. Introduction: The Nature of Folk Psychology	11
1.1 What is Folk Psychology?	11
1.2 A Theory of Mind	13
1.3 Folk Psychology and Anti-Realism	14
1.4 The Status of Folk Psychology	18
1.5 How it Develops	20
1.6 Folk Psychology and Universality	23
1.7 Rationality.....	24
2. Realism and Representation:
Why Ontology Doesn't Matter	27
2.1 Setting the Stage: Functionalism	29
2.2 Fodor's Industrial-Strength Realism.....	32
2.3 Do Minds Really Compute?	36
2.4 Brains Don't Work that Way	41
2.5 What is Fodor Really Doing?	43
2.6 Dennett's Mild-Realism.....	46
2.7 The Standard Interpretation	49
2.8 The Standard Interpretation: Objections.....	53
2.9 A Different Interpretation: No Serious Ontology Please.....	57
2.10 Defending Dennett.....	59
2.11 Why Folk Psychology Works: Evolution	62
2.12 Culture and Folk Psychology: An Anti-Realist Approach ...	70
2.13 Conclusion	74
3. Theories, Madness and Apathy:
Why Folk Psychology is Here to Stay	77
3.1 Roots of Eliminative Materialism:
Intertheoretic Reduction	79
3.2 Eliminative Materialism: The Hard Line Approach	82
3.3 What is Stich Up To?.....	87

3.4	Preliminary Comments	88
3.5	Is Folk Psychology Stagnant?	93
3.6	Folk Psychology Does Not Integrate	95
3.7	Privileged Access and Brute Experiences	99
3.8	So Much for Mental Illness	102
3.9	Eliminative Materialism: The Soft Line Approach	110
3.10	Folk Psychology and Scientific Theories	112
3.11	Conclusion	123
4.	How Folk Psychology Develops:
	The Theory-Theory and Simulation Theory Debate	125
4.1	The Theory-Theory	126
4.2	The Developmental Sequence	128
4.3	The False-Belief Task	134
4.4	Problems with Theory-Theory	137
4.5	Modular Theory of Mind	141
4.6	Simulation Theory	145
4.7	Problems with Simulation Theory	149
4.8	The Origin of Folk Psychological Concepts	153
4.9	Socio-Linguistic Approach	161
4.10	Conclusion	168
5.	Ethnopsychologies and Theory of Mind	169
5.1	Theory of Mind and Universality	171
5.2	Growing Up in the West	175
5.3	Animism	178
5.4	Homer	180
5.5	Characteristics of Mind in Other Cultures	183
5.6	Other Sources of Behaviour	193
5.7	Implications for Theory-Theory	196
5.8	Implications for Simulation Theory	198
5.9	A Universal Theory of Mind: Revisited	200
5.10	Implications for Realism	208
5.11	Conclusion	209
6.	Rationality: Understanding Other Cultures	211
6.1	Western Rationality	212
6.2	The Problem of Irrational Explanations in Other Cultures	218

6.3	Relativism.....	223
6.4	Evolutionary Reasons for Rationality.....	232
6.5	Practical Rationality.....	242
6.6	The Symbolist Approach	246
6.7	The Intellectualist Approach.....	251
6.8	A Consequentialist Approach	253
6.9	Conclusion	259
Bibliography		261
Index		275