
Table of Contents

I	Introduction	2
	Biographical Information	9
II	Positivism and Realism	14
	Pauli's Positivism	15
	Pauli's Realism	19
III	The Reality of Opposites	25
	Seekers of Another Way	28
	Absolute Causality and Freedom	31
IV	The Metaphysical Roots of Science	38
	The Birth of a Mathematical Natural Science	38
	A New Concept of Causality	44
V	Spirit and Matter	51
	The Twilight of Parallelism	51
	Statistical Causality	53
	The Idea of a Detached Observer	57
	In Conclusion	62
VI	The Limits of Knowledge	67
	Uncertainty	67
	Pauli's Attitude	70
	Archetypes	76
	Synchronicity	80
VII	Mysticism	88
	Another Way	88
	Explanatory Comments	93
	Die Wissenschaft und das abendländische Denken (1955)	96

VIII	The Problem of Evil	105
	Irrationality and Evil	105
	Excerpts from Pauli's Letter to Fierz of Oct. 11, 1953		108
	Henry More: The Dream of Bathynous	114
	The Darker Side of God	121
	A Certain Dream	122
IX	Quaternity	125
	The Number Four and Reality	125
	The Problem of "The Fourth"	130
	Where Leads the Road?	133
	The Quarternarian Concept of Reality	137
X	Transcendental Reality	140
	Synchronicity	140
	Observer and Observed	144
	The Veiled Reality	148
	The Irrational Dimensions of Reality	152
 APPENDICES
I	Wolfgang Pauli and the Copenhagen Philosophy	156
	1. Pauli's Role in the Creation of Quantum Mechanics		156
	2. What is the Copenhagen Interpretation?	158
	3. The Problem of the "Detached Observer"	162
	4. Pauli's Philosophical Attitude	165
	Addendum: Remark on the EPR-Problem	167
	References	168
II	The Role of the Observer in Microphysics	171
	The Problem of Two Languages	174
	The Role of the Experimental Arrangement in Observation		176
	The Struggle for Wholeness in Atomic Physics	177
	References	178
III	The Possibility of Science and Its Limits	180
	Archetypes	181
	The Message of the Atoms	183
	Complementarity	183
	The Objectivity of Reality	184

	Veiled Reality	185
	The Microcosm and the Macrocosm	187
	The Message of the Archetypes	189
IV	Translations of the German Quotations into English	192
	Subject Index	229