

Contents

Foreword	v
Contributors	xi
Introduction	xiii

Section 1:Theoretical Perspectives

Chapter 1	Discourse Analysis in Linguistics: Historical and Theoretical Background	3
	RICHARD PATRY and JEAN-LUC NESPOULOUS
	Historical Background: Discourse and the Prevailing Approaches to Language Analysis in Linguistics	3
	The Emergence of Discourse as a Field of Inquiry	9
	Discourse Analysis and Neurolinguistics	20
Chapter 2	The Psycholinguistics of Discourse Comprehension	28
	GREGORY L. MURPHY
	General Principles	29
	Specific Topics	37
	Morals and Conclusions	46
Chapter 3	Text Analysis: Macro- and Microstructural Aspects of Discourse Processing	50
	ERNEST F. MROSS
	Propositional Representations	51
	The Kintsch and van Dijk Model	53
	Conclusions	63

Chapter 4	The Cognitive Representation and Processing of Discourse: Function and Dysfunction	69
	CARL H. FREDERIKSEN, ROBERT J. BRACEWELL, ALAIN BREULEUX, and ANDRÉ RENAUD
	Discourse Comprehension	71
	Discourse Production	84
	Methods for Studying Discourse Processing	90
 Section 2: Empirical Perspectives
Chapter 5	Discourse Comprehension by Right-Hemisphere Stroke Patients: Deficits of Prediction and Revision	113
	RAYMOND MOLLOY, HIRAM H. BROWNELL, and HOWARD GARDNER
	Stroke and Its Aftermath	113
	Indirect Requests and Verbal Irony	115
	Verbal Irony	119
	Jokes and Inference Revision	121
	Jokes	121
	Inference	124
	Discourse Deficits in the Context of Other Research	125
 Chapter 6	 Narrative Discourse in Right-Brain-Damaged Right-Handers	 131
	YVES JOANETTE and PIERRE GOULET
	General Methodology	132
	General Discussion	149
 Chapter 7	 Text Comprehension and Production in Aphasia: Analysis in Terms of Micro- and Macrostructure	 154
	WALTER HUBER
	Introduction	154
	Text-Picture Matching	156
	Comprehension of Metaphorical Idioms	159
	Verbal Description of Cartoon Stories	169
	Conclusions	176
 Chapter 8	 Narrative and Procedural Discourse in Aphasia	 180
	HANNA K. ULATOWSKA, LEE ALLARD, and SANDRA BOND CHAPMAN
	Introduction	180
	Perspectives on Discourse Genre	181
	Review of Research	182

	Interpretation of Results	188
	Extensions of Discourse Studies	192
	Epilogue	194
Chapter 9	Discourse Ability in Children after Brain Damage	199
	MAUREEN DENNIS and MAUREEN W. LOVETT
	The Study of Discourse	199
	Why Study Discourse in Brain-Damaged Children?	200
	Representing Discourse Information	200
	Discourse Analysis Methods and Applications	204
	Current Applications of Discourse Procedures to Brain-Damaged Children	206
	Potential Applications of Discourse Procedures	215
	Issues on Which Early Brain-Damaged Discourse Processing Data Bear	216
Chapter 10	Discourse Abilities and Deficits in Multilingual Dementia	224
	SUSAN DE SANTI, LORAIN K. OBLER, HELENE SABO-ABRAMSON, and JOAN GOLDBERGER
	Introduction	224
	Literature Review	225
	Description of Cases	226
	Procedure	227
	Methods	227
	Results	229
	Discussion	233
Chapter 11	Gender-Specific Discourse Differences in Aphasia	236
	WOLFGANG U. DRESSLER, RUTH WODAK, and CSABA PLÉH
	Introduction	236
	Speech Samples	239
	Analytic Scheme	239
	Statistical Analysis	240
	Discussion	242
	Author Index	247
	Subject Index	255