

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

Marko Pajević and Raili Marling

Introduction: Health and Biopolitics in COVID-19 Times – What Constitutes a Healthy Society? — 1

Daniele Monticelli

Preliminary Remarks for a Biopolitical History of Western Plague Narratives — 25

Meelis Friedenthal

How to Manage Plague and COVID-19: Parallels and Differences Between Today and Premodern and Early-Modern Medical Theories — 47

Thomas Crew

“Civilization is Sterilization”: Utopia, Biopolitics and the Total Society in Horkheimer and Adorno’s Dialectic of Enlightenment and Aldous Huxley’s Brave New World — 59

Timothy Campbell

COVID-19 as Event: Mythology and Ritual in Agamben’s Pandemic Dispatches — 91

Sherryl Vint

Biopolitics, Form-of-Life, A New Use of Bodies — 111

Raili Marling

The Relationality and Representability of Biopolitical Crises — 133

Marko Pajević

State Control Versus Humanity: Biopolitics and Health in Juli Zeh’s The METHOD (Corpus Delicti), 2009) — 155

Betiel Wasihun

The Quantified Self: Surveillance, Biopolitics and Literary Resistance — 183

VIII — Contents

Frank Kraushaar

When “Total War” Joins “People’s War”: China’s Recent Surge of Biopolitics and Its Repercussions in Internet Poetry — 205

Marge Käsper

Inside in Immunity, Outside in Community? Discussing Esposito and Framing Pandemic Polemics in France — 233

Michael Eskin

Needful Facts, Big and Small: On Bodies, Equality, and Treatment — 251

About the Authors — 265

Index — 271