

Index

Acknowledgements.....	7
Foreword.....	9
Index	13
Introduction.....	17

PART I

THE EUROPEAN UNION AND THE LINK BETWEEN ACTIVE AND PASSIVE LABOUR MARKET POLICIES

1. Key concepts in the development of European active and passive labour market policies.....	23
1.1 The beginnings	23
1.2 The Seventies	24
1.3 The Eighties.....	25
1.4 The Nineties and rising tensions between the market and the social sphere: looking for solutions	30
1.5 The content of employment policies during the Nineties.....	35
1.6 The new millennium.....	44
1.6.1 The need to revise the Lisbon Strategy	49
2 Flexicurity : a model to ease the tensions between the market and the social dimension?	51
2.1 The diffusion of the concept of flexicurity	51
2.2 The Green Paper and neoliberal ideas	53
2.3 The European Council in 2006.....	55
2.4 The principles of flexicurity : the Communication of the European Commission (27 June 2007)	56
2.5 The position of the European Parliament	60
2.6 The commencement of the Lisbon Treaty	62

13

3	The current situation.....	67
3.1	Europe 2020	67
3.2	Employment guidelines since 2010.....	68
3.3	Measures to combat the crisis	70

PART II

THE FLEXICURITY AFFAIR, EES DOMESTIC IMPLEMENTATION, AND NEW CHALLENGES FOR THE EUROPEAN EMPLOYMENT POLICIES

4.	Flexicurity : the main issues concerning the relationship between active and passive policies.....	81
4.1	Flexicurity : reasons and context for the present analysis.....	81
4.2	Flexicurity : divergent perspectives.....	82
4.3	Activation policies as part of the flexicurity strategy.....	87
4.4	The workfare concept.....	91
4.5	Passive labour market policies: the necessity for recalibration – which routes to take?.....	95
5	EES domestic implementation	101
5.1	Introduction	101
5.2	The Danish system	102
5.2.1	Introduction.....	102
5.2.2	Danish labour market reforms and their link to the European guidelines	111
5.3	The German system.....	118
5.3.1	Introduction.....	118
5.3.2	German labour market reforms and their link to the European guidelines	122

5.4	The Italian system	132
5.4.1	Introduction	132
5.4.2	Italian labour market reforms and their link to the European guidelines	138
5.5	Trends in active and passive policies in the three case studies	148
6	The Pillar of Social Rights and the social citizenship approach	157
6.1	Introduction	157
6.2	The Pillar of Social Rights and some highlights	159
6.2.1	Supervision of the implementation process	161
6.2.2	The Pillar: soft law that charts a path for hard law	161
6.2.3	Legitimacy.....	163
6.3	Social citizenship.....	167
6.4	Questioning the notions of society and of the individual	175
	Conclusions.....	179
	Bibliography	183