

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	VII
Paul Srodecki and Daria Kozlova

SECTION I Conceptual and Theoretical Frameworks

1. A Difficult Relationship — World War II and Remembrance in Post-Socialist Europe	3
Paul Srodecki
2. Mechanisms of Dealing with the Past	37
Frank Golczewski

SECTION II State Memory Narratives and Their Public Perception

3. The Militainment of World War II Memory in Post-Soviet Russia	65
Elizaveta Gaufman
4. From Great Patriotic War to World War II: How Memory Changed in Georgia after Independence	81
Nino Chikovani and Malkhaz Matsaberidze
5. Difficult Transformation: The Remembrance of World War II in Czechia after 1989	101
Darina Volf
6. Remembering the Holocaust after 1989: Slovakia More Than Thirty Years Later	127
Monika Vrzgulová
7. Victims and Perpetrators of World War II in Memory Politics in Serbia and Croatia, 1990s–2020	145
Jelena Jorgačević Kisić and Olga Manojlović Pintar

8. Just a Local Affair? Estonian Memories of the Second World War and the Dialogue with Western Memory Culture 169
David Feest

SECTION III
Museums, Memorials and Monuments as Controversial Objects of Cultural Memory

9. World War II and the Holocaust in Post-Communist Memorial
Museums 205
Ljiljana Radonić

10. Great Patriotic War versus Nationalization: Remembrance and Commemoration in Belarusian Museums 225
Kristiane Janeke

11. Museums' Representation of World War II in Ukraine 1991–2019
against the Background of Memory Politics: Competing Narratives and Reconciliation Measures 243
Daria Kozlova

12. Stumbling Blocks in the Way — Holocaust Remembrance in Hungary after 1989 269
Zsuzsanna Agora and George Deak

Contributors 297

Abbreviations 301

Index 303