

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction Jennifer M. Kapczynski and Caroline A. Kita	I
1 Imperiled Democracies: History and the Legacy of the Weimar Republic for the Twenty-First Century Kathleen Canning	14
2 Intellectuals and the People: Conversation Forums and West German Democracy in the 1950s Sean A. Forner	37
3 Listening Toward Democracy: Axel Eggebrecht and the Postwar Radio Play Caroline A. Kita	60
4 Amateur Democrats Jennifer M. Kapczynski	75
5 No Country for Old Minds: The Psychology of West Germany's Democratization Anthony D. Kauders	97
6 Democratic Reeducation: Hermann Broch's Reflections on Postwar Germany Paul Michael Lützeler	114

7	Learning to Read Again: Thomas Mann, the US Army's POW Reeducation Efforts, and the Role of Literature in a Democratic Germany Tobias Boes	132
8	First Comes the Feeding, Then Comes the Democratization: Food, Hunger, and Democracy in the Early FRG Alice Weinreb	148
9	Ruth Woodsmall, US Women's Affairs, and Democratic Practice in the Early Federal Republic of Germany Darcy Buerkle	166
10	Redemptive Whiteness: Racism and Democratization, or Figurations of Germanness in 1950s West German Cinema Maja Figge	189
11	Foundational Narratives: West German Nation-Building through State-Sponsored PR Films, 1953–1963 Jan Uelzmann	209
12	"A Memory Goes to Work": The Visual Promise of the Marshall Plan Frank Mehring	230
	Contributors	251
	Index	255